NAHQ Certified Professional in Healthcare Quality Examination Sample Questions (Q77-Q82):

NEW QUESTION # 77
Benchmark is a term used to describe

- A. Progressive attainment of improvement
- B. Internal organizational performance
- C. Achievement of outcomes
- D. Measurement against others

Answer: D

Explanation:
Benchmarking involves comparing performance metrics to external standards or peers to identify gaps and drive improvement.
Option A (Internal organizational performance): Internal performance is self-assessment, not benchmarking, which involves external comparison.
Option B (Progressive attainment of improvement): Improvement tracks progress, not benchmarking against others.
Option C (Achievement of outcomes): Outcomes reflect results, not the act of comparison.
Option D (Measurement against others): This is the correct answer. The NAHQ CPHQ study guide states,
"Benchmarking is the process of measuring performance against external standards or peer organizations to identify best practices" (Domain 2).
CPHQ Objective Reference: Domain 2: Health Data Analytics, Objective 2.4, "Use benchmarking for performance comparison," emphasizes external measurement. The NAHQ study guide notes, "Benchmarking compares metrics to others for improvement" (Domain 2).
Rationale: Benchmarking involves external comparison, aligning with CPHQ's analytics principles.
Reference: NAHQ CPHQ Study Guide, Domain 2: Health Data Analytics, Objective 2.4.

NEW QUESTION # 78
The most important initial step in preparing for an accreditation survey is:

- A. Teaching performance improvement methods
- B. Assessing the standards to identify gaps
- C. Identifying clinical quality improvement activities
- D. Conducting multidisciplinary standards education

Answer: B

Explanation:
According to the NAHQ CPHQ exam blueprint, the first and most critical step in accreditation readiness is conducting a gap analysis. This involves assessing current organizational practices against accreditation standards to identify areas of noncompliance or risk.
Option B is correct because gap analysis establishes a baseline understanding of where the organization stands and informs prioritization, education, and improvement planning. Without identifying gaps, subsequent activities may be misaligned or ineffective.
Options A, C, and D are important later steps but depend on the findings of the gap assessment. The CPHQ framework stresses that accreditation preparation must be systematic and data-driven, beginning with evaluation before intervention.

NEW QUESTION # 79
Stratification is the separation and classification of data into reasonably homogenous categories, within the data, that are mutually exclusive and facilitate:

- A. Discovery of patterns that would not be observed id data were aggregated

- B. frustrated measurement process
- C. Skills that are based more experience than knowledge
- D. Data collection efforts

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 80
Which tool would be best suited to sequence interventions within a project?

- A. Affinity diagram
- B. Prioritization matrix
- C. Histogram
- D. Pareto chart

Answer: B

Explanation:
A prioritization matrix is the best tool for sequencing interventions in a performance or process improvement project because it helps teams evaluate and rank multiple options based on defined criteria such as impact, effort, cost, or feasibility.
Here's how the options compare:Tool
Primary Use
A: Prioritization matrix
Used to rank and sequence actions based on multiple weighted criteria. Ideal for choosing which interventions to implement first.
B: Affinity diagram
Used to group ideas or data into themes or categories. Helps with brainstorming, not sequencing.
C: Pareto chart
Visualizes the 80/20 rule-helps identify the most frequent or impactful issues, but does not guide sequencing.
D: Histogram
Displays the distribution of data (e.g., frequency). It shows patterns, but does not assist in prioritizing or sequencing actions.

NEW QUESTION # 81
Which of the following represents an unintended consequence of payer-driven quality initiatives?

- A. Increased use of performance data by stakeholders
- B. Improved population health
- C. Improved patient care
- D. Increased use of healthcare services

Answer: D

Explanation:
Detailed Explanation:
Increased use of healthcare services can result from payer-driven quality initiatives as providers may increase testing or services to meet quality metrics.
Option A: Increased use of healthcare services
This unintended consequence may occur as providers aim to meet certain quality standards.
References:
Quality initiative literature highlights how payer-driven metrics can lead to increased service utilization, sometimes beyond clinical necessity.
