CheckPoint Check Point Certified Security Administrator - R82 Sample Questions (Q302-Q307):

NEW QUESTION # 302

To enforce the Security Policy correctly, a Security Gateway requires:

- A. a routing table
- B. awareness of the network topology
- C. a Demilitarized Zone
- D. a Security Policy install

Answer: B

Explanation:

To enforce the Security Policy correctly, a Security Gateway requires awareness of the network topology. This means that the gateway knows which networks and interfaces are internal and external, and how to route packets between them. NEW QUESTION # 303

What is the Transport layer of the TCP/IP model responsible for?

- A. It manages the flow of data between two hosts to ensure that the packets are correctly assembled and delivered to the target application.
- B. It defines the protocols that are used to exchange data between networks and how host programs interact with the Application layer.
- C. It deals with all aspects of the physical components of network connectivity and connects with different network types.
- D. It transports packets as datagrams along different routes to reach their destination.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Transport layer of the TCP/IP model is responsible for managing the flow of data between two hosts to ensure that the packets are correctly assembled and delivered to the target application. It also provides error detection and correction, flow control, and multiplexing. The Transport layer uses protocols such as TCP and UDP.

NEW QUESTION # 304

A security zone is a group of one or more network interfaces from different centrally managed gateways. What is considered part of the zone?

- A. Security Zones are not supported by Check Point firewalls.
- B. The firewall rule can be configured to include one or more subnets in a zone.
- C. The zone is based on the network topology and determined according to where the interface leads to.
- D. The local directly connected subnet defined by the subnet IP and subnet mask.

Answer: C

Explanation:

A security zone is a group of one or more network interfaces from different centrally managed gateways that have the same security requirements. The zone is based on the network topology and determined according to where the interface leads to. For example, a zone can be defined as internal, external, DMZ, VPN, etc. Security zones are supported by Check Point firewalls and can be used to simplify security policies and network segmentation. The firewall rule can be configured to include one or more zones as source or destination objects. The local directly connected subnet defined by the subnet IP and subnet mask is not considered part of the zone, but rather a property of the interface.[Security Zones], [Security Zones Best Practices]

NEW QUESTION # 305

Which single Security Blade can be turned on to block both malicious files from being downloaded as well as block websites known to host malware?

- A. None - both Anti-Virus and Anti-Bot are required for this
- B. Anti-Bot
- C. None - both URL Filtering and Anti-Virus are required for this.
- D. Anti-Virus

Answer: D

Explanation:

Anti-Virus is the single Security Blade that can be turned on to block both malicious files from being downloaded as well as block websites known to host malware. Anti-Virus scans files and email attachments for viruses, worms, trojans, and other types of malware. It also uses ThreatCloud, a collaborative network that delivers real-time dynamic security intelligence, to detect unknown malware based on their behavior. Anti-Bot is a Security Blade that detects and blocks botnet communications, but it does not scan files or block websites. URL Filtering is a Security Blade that enables administrators to control access to web applications, but it does not scan files or detect malware.

NEW QUESTION # 306

How is communication between different Check Point components secured in R80? As with all questions, select the best answer.

- A. By using 3DES
- B. By using SIC
- C. By using ICA
- D. By using IPSEC

Answer: B

Explanation:

The communication between different Check Point components is secured in R80 by using SIC. SIC stands for Secure Internal Communication and it is a mechanism that ensures the authenticity and confidentiality of communication between Check Point components, such as Security Gateways, Security Management Servers, Log Servers, etc. SIC uses certificates issued by the Internal CA (ICA) and encryption algorithms such as AES-25634.
