Peoplecert MSP Practitioner, 5th edition Exam MSP-Practitioner Prüfungsfragen mit Lösungen (Q79-Q84):

79. Frage

Which of the following is a Boundary document?

- A. Stakeholder profiles
- B. Programme preparation plan
- C. Risk register
- D. Benefits Map

Antwort: D

80. Frage

During the 'identify the programme' process, the SRO identified that the utility regulator may be considering a fair pricing policy to protect vulnerable customers. The introduction of this policy would have a significant impact on the benefits expected by UU. The programme manager included this information in the programme brief.

How well does this apply the 'deal with ambiguity' principle, and why?

- A. It applies it poorly, because a formal, documented, risk management process should be used to assess the risk before it is included in the programme brief
- B. It applies it poorly, because this risk is so significant that it should have been identified in the programme mandate by the sponsoring group
- C. It applies it well, because UU needs to understand their risk appetite in the current business climate before they start the programme
- D. It applies it well, because the sponsoring group needs to understand the possible impact of this risk when deciding whether to proceed

Antwort: D

Begründung:

Comprehensive and Detailed 200 to 250 words of Explanation From Exact Extract of project- programme-and-portfolio-management of 5th Edition MSP:

The 'Deal with ambiguity' principle in MSP 5th Edition recognizes that programmes operate in evolving environments where not all information is known at the outset. This principle requires programme teams to acknowledge uncertainty and proceed with the best available information, rather than waiting for absolute certainty, which may never come. Ambiguity often stems from external factors, such as potential regulatory changes, which are outside the programme's direct control but can significantly affect its viability.

In this scenario, the potential for a "fair pricing policy" is a classic example of ambiguity during the 'Identify the programme' process.

By including this information in the programme brief, the Programme Manager and SRO are surfacing a critical uncertainty early. Option A is the correct answer because the primary purpose of identifying such ambiguity at this stage is to enable the Sponsoring Group to make an informed

"invest/no-invest" decision. The programme brief is designed to provide enough information to justify moving to the more detailed 'Design the programme' stage. If the Sponsoring Group is unaware of this potential impact on benefits, they cannot accurately assess the programme's value or risk profile. Ignoring the ambiguity until a formal risk process is established (Option C) would be a failure of this principle, as MSP encourages proactive transparency regarding what is unknown or uncertain from the very beginning of the transformational flow.

81. Frage

Halfway through Tranche 2, North City local government announced a new incentive programme to support green initiatives that help residents reduce their carbon footprint. UU is applying for this funding, claiming that its water smart meters and leak detection systems qualify as eco-friendly mechanisms aligned to the new government scheme. The cost of the application process will be more than paid for if UU is approved as part of the incentive programme.

Is this an appropriate application of the justification theme, and why?

- A. Yes, because the programme budget should include financial contingency to deal with identified opportunities
- B. No, because the programme should consider the 'do nothing' option, plus at least two other options, before pursuing the opportunity
- C. No, because the funding approach for this programme should ensure that the programme is self-funded by this point
- D. Yes, because the sponsoring group should pursue valuable opportunities and make them more likely to occur

Antwort: D

Begründung:

Comprehensive and Detailed 200 to 250 words of Explanation From Exact Extract of project- programme-and-portfolio-management of 5th Edition MSP:

The Justification Theme in MSP 5th Edition includes the ongoing assessment of the Business Case in light of new information, including opportunities. An opportunity is an uncertain event that would have a positive impact on the programme's objectives if it occurs. MSP encourages a proactive approach to opportunity management as part of maintaining a robust and attractive justification for the programme.

Option B is correct because the Sponsoring Group and the SRO have a duty to maximize the value of the programme. Pursuing an external funding source that aligns with the programme's existing outputs (smart meters/leak detection) is a direct way to improve the programme's financial viability. By applying for the incentive, the programme is attempting to "exploit" or "enhance" an opportunity. This aligns with the MSP principle of 'Realize measurable benefits.' Option A is less accurate because, while contingency is used for risks, opportunities are often managed by business-case adjustments rather than just drawing from a contingency fund. Option D refers to the initial "Identify the Programme" stage where options analysis is required for the whole programme; it does not strictly apply to pursuing a tactical funding opportunity mid- tranche that already aligns with the approved scope. The justification remains valid-and indeed strengthened-by successfully capturing additional value.

82. Frage

In Managing the Tranches, which role is responsible for preparing for the next tranche?

- A. The Benefits Realization Manager
- B. The Programme Office
- C. The Programme Manager
- D. The Programme Board

Antwort: C

Begründung:

The Programme Manager holds responsibility for preparing for the next tranche in the programme lifecycle.

This involves planning, coordination, and ensuring all necessary resources, approvals, and governance arrangements are in place for the tranche to proceed smoothly.

The MSP Practitioner clearly states: "Programme manager is responsible for preparing for next tranche," highlighting the Programme Manager's central role in tranche delivery, risk mitigation, stakeholder communication, and readiness activities.

Preparation for the next tranche includes refining project dossiers, updating the Business Case if necessary, coordinating with the Benefits Realization Manager and other roles, and ensuring that lessons learned from the previous tranche inform future work. This continuous cycle of preparation and delivery ensures programme adaptability, control, and alignment with strategic objectives.

The Programme Board provides governance and approval but delegates the operational responsibilities to the Programme Manager. The Programme Office supports through administrative functions, and the Benefits Realization Manager focuses on benefit tracking rather than tranche planning.

83. Frage

Which of the following is a KEY attribute for a Programme Manager?

- A. Have access to key stakeholders
- B. A good knowledge of project management approaches
- C. Change management skills
- D. Have ongoing operational responsibilities within their business area

Antwort: B

Begründung:

A key attribute for a Programme Manager is a good knowledge of project management approaches. This expertise enables the Programme Manager to oversee and coordinate multiple interrelated projects, ensuring they deliver outputs that collectively realize programme objectives.

The MSP Practitioner states: "Programme Manager should have good project management skills," emphasizing that while strategic leadership and stakeholder engagement are important, the ability to manage the complexities of project delivery is fundamental to the Programme Manager role.

While change management skills and access to key stakeholders are important complementary abilities, the core responsibility of managing project delivery across a dossier of projects necessitates strong project management knowledge. The Programme Manager acts as the bridge between strategic programme objectives and tactical project execution, requiring detailed understanding of project methodologies, risk management, scheduling, resource coordination, and quality assurance.

This knowledge supports effective integration, issue resolution, and benefits delivery, positioning the Programme Manager as a central figure in programme success.
