Archer Certified Administrator-Expert Sample Questions (Q67-Q72):

NEW QUESTION # 67

When a new Question Library record is added, there are several fields required. Information such as question type and display format are needed for which of the following reasons?

- A. These details are used to ensure an organization does not go beyond the record number limit included with their chosen support level.
- B. These details tell the Archer platform what type of field needs to be built for each question when a Questionnaire is created.
- C. These details are used as a baseline to determine how much space will be required on the server to support Questionnaires that leverage these records.
- D. These details will impact the display of each Question Library record in View status.

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the Questionnaires and Assessment Maintenance curriculum, the Question Library acts as a "blueprint" for the final assessment. When you add a record to the Library, you aren't just adding text; you are defining the metadata for a future field.

The Question Type (e.g., Numeric, Values List, Text) and Display Format (e.g., Radio Buttons vs.

Dropdown) are mandatory because they tell the Archer platform how to dynamically generate the user interface when a Questionnaire is launched. When a target record is created from a template, Archer looks at these library fields to determine which database column types to use and how the web browser should render the interaction. Without this information, the system would not know whether to provide a text box for a comment or a list of "Yes/No" options for the respondent.

NEW QUESTION # 68

Which SSO method is easiest to set up and automatically handles user authentication in Windows-based environments?

- A. Federated SSO
- B. Token Based SSO
- C. Windows Integrated SSO

Answer: C

Explanation:

In a standard corporate environment where users are already logged into a Windows Domain, Windows Integrated SSO (WIA) is considered the "easiest" and most seamless method. According to the Archer installation guides, WIA utilizes the NTLM or Kerberos protocols already built into the Windows OS and Internet Information Services (IIS).

Because the web server and the user's workstation share a common trust via Active Directory, the user is authenticated automatically without needing to provide credentials or interact with a third-party identity provider (IdP). While Federated SSO (Option C), like SAML, is more robust for cloud or multi-platform environments, it requires significantly more configuration, including certificate exchanges and metadata mapping. Token Based SSO (Option B) often requires custom coding or specialized header injection. For a pure Windows-based internal environment, Windows Integrated SSO provides the most "out-of-the-box" experience for both the administrator and the end-user.

NEW QUESTION # 69

Which of the following are automatically assigned by Archer when a new user is created?

- A. Default Access Role, Default Email Address
- B. One time password, Default Email Address
- C. Default Security Parameter and Default Access Role
- D. Username, default Security Parameter, and default Access Role

Answer: C

Explanation:

In the Manage Users section of Archer, the platform uses global defaults to ensure that new accounts are created with a baseline security posture. According to the Archer Administration II security module, every new user record is automatically assigned the Default Security Parameter and the Default Access Role defined in the instance settings.

The Security Parameter (Option D) governs password complexity, expiration, and session timeouts. The Default Access Role typically provides very limited "Read" access to ensure the user can at least log in to the workspace, but usually requires further administrative adjustment to grant functional permissions. A Username (Option A) must be manually entered or mapped from LDAP; Archer cannot guess a unique username. Similarly, email addresses and passwords require specific input or integration triggers. By automatically assigning the default Security Parameter and Access Role, Archer ensures that no user is created without essential security governance already in place.

NEW QUESTION # 70

If a valid global search returns no results, where is that logged?

- A. Data feed service log file
- B. Queuing service log file
- C. Configuration service log file
- D. Job framework log file

Answer: D

Explanation:

In the Archer architecture, search operations-particularly Global Search and Indexing -are handled by the Search service, which operates under the broader Job Framework . According to the Archer Installation and Troubleshooting guide, when a user executes a search that is technically "valid" (meaning the syntax is correct) but fails to return expected results or fails during execution, the details are captured in the Job Framework log files .

These logs provide insight into how the Search service is interacting with the Lucene indexes. If the index is corrupt or if the search query is timing out, the Job Framework logs (usually found in the \Logs directory on the Services server) will contain the specific stack traces or warnings. The Configuration Service (Option A) only logs system-level startup and ACP connectivity, and the Data Feed Service (Option D) is irrelevant to UI search queries. Reviewing the Job Framework logs is the standard first step for administrators when users report that "search isn't working" despite records clearly existing in the system.

NEW QUESTION # 71

Which button on the record can you use to invoke a Mail Merge Template?

- A. Email
- B. Export
- C. Extract
- D. Related

Answer: B

Explanation:

The Mail Merge functionality in Archer allows administrators to take record data and push it into a pre- formatted Word or PDF template. This is a common requirement for generating formal "Exception Letters" or "Audit Reports."

As taught in the Archer Administration II curriculum, when a user is viewing a record and wishes to generate one of these documents, they must click the Export button. Upon clicking Export, the user is presented with several options: standard exports (like CSV or Rich Text) and any Mail Merge Templates that have been associated with that specific application and made available to the user's role. Option B (Email) is used for sending on-demand notifications, not for generating formatted document templates based on Word/PDF layouts.
