DA0-002 Latest Exam Duration & Regualer DA0-002 Update

Our PDF version, online test engine and windows software of the CompTIA Data+ Exam (2025) study materials have no restrictions to your usage. You can freely download our PDF version and print it on papers. Also, you can share our DA0-002 study materials with other classmates. The online test engine of the study materials can run on all windows system, which means you can begin your practice without downloading the DA0-002 Study Materials as long as there have a computer. Also, our windows software support downloading for many times. What is more, you can install our DA0-002 study materials on many computers. All of them can be operated normally. The three versions of DA0-002 study materials are excellent. Just choose them as your good learning helpers.

CompTIA Data+ Exam (2025) Sample Questions (Q39-Q44):

NEW QUESTION # 39

A data analyst needs to get an accurate idea of how data components are automated. Which of the following types of documentation should the analyst review first?

- A. Data explainability report
- B. Data flow diagram
- C. Data lineage
- D. Data dictionary

Answer: B

Explanation:

This question pertains to the Data Concepts and Environments domain, focusing on documentation for understanding data processes.

The analyst needs to understand automation of data components, which involves data movement and processes.

* Data flow diagram (Option A): A data flow diagram (DFD) visualizes how data moves through systems, including automated processes, making it the best starting point.

* Data explainability report (Option B): This is related to AI/ML model transparency, not data automation.

* Data dictionary (Option C): A data dictionary defines data elements, not how they're automated.

* Data lineage (Option D): Data lineage tracks data origin and transformations but doesn't focus on automation processes.

The DA0-002 Data Concepts and Environments domain includes understanding "data schemas and dimensions," and a data flow diagram is key for visualizing automation.

NEW QUESTION # 40

Which of the following AI types is the best option for time-series forecasting?

- A. Robotic process automation
- B. Generative AI
- C. Natural language processing
- D. Foundational models

Answer: D

Explanation:

Foundational models are large AI models trained on vast amounts of data, often exhibiting strong generalization capabilities. While not specifically architected for time-series, their ability to learn complex patterns could potentially be leveraged for forecasting tasks through fine-tuning or specialized architectures built upon them.

In reality, the best AI types specifically designed for time-series forecasting include:

* Recurrent Neural Networks (RNNs), especially LSTMs and GRUs: These architectures are designed to handle sequential data and capture temporal dependencies.

* Transformer Networks: Originally developed for NLP, Transformers have shown remarkable success in time-series forecasting due to their ability to capture long-range dependencies.

* Traditional statistical models: ARIMA, Exponential Smoothing, and other statistical methods remain powerful and interpretable options for time-series analysis.

Therefore, while "foundational models" have some potential, it's important to understand that they aren't the primary or specifically designed AI type for time-series forecasting.

NEW QUESTION # 41

A data analyst deployed a report for public access. A user states that the report is not showing the latest information, even though the user updated the source an hour ago. Which of the following should the data analyst check first?

- A. Event log
- B. Report corruption
- C. User privileges
- D. Database connection

Answer: D

Explanation:

This question pertains to the Data Governance domain, focusing on troubleshooting data freshness issues in reports. The report isn't showing the latest data despite a recent source update, indicating a potential refresh or connectivity issue.

* Event log (Option A): Event logs might provide insight into errors, but they're not the first step for checking data freshness.

* User privileges (Option B): Privileges might affect access, but the user can see the report, so this isn't the issue.

* Database connection (Option C): If the database connection failed or isn't refreshing properly, the report won't reflect the latest data, making this the first thing to check.

* Report corruption (Option D): Corruption might cause errors, but it's less likely than a connectivity issue for this scenario.

The DA0-002 Data Governance domain includes "data quality control concepts," such as ensuring data freshness by verifying database connections.

NEW QUESTION # 42

An analyst needs to produce a final dataset using the following tables:

CourseID

SectionNumber

StudentID

MATH1000

1

10009

MATH1000

2

10007

PSYC1500

1

10009

PSYC1500

1

10015

StudentID

FirstName

LastName

10009

Jane

Smith

10007

John

Doe

10015

Robert

Roe

The expected output should be formatted as follows:

| CourseID | SectionNumber | StudentID | FirstName | LastName |

Which of the following actions is the best way to produce the requested output?

- A. Group
- B. Join
- C. Aggregate
- D. Filter

Answer: B

Explanation:

This question falls under the Data Acquisition and Preparation domain, focusing on combining tables to produce a dataset. The task requires combining the Courses and Students tables to include student names with course details, based on the StudentID.

* Aggregate (Option A): Aggregation (e.g., SUM, COUNT) summarizes data, not suitable for combining tables to include names.

* Join (Option B): A join operation (e.g., INNER JOIN on StudentID) combines the tables, matching records to produce the requested output with CourseID, SectionNumber, StudentID, FirstName, and LastName.

* Group (Option C): Grouping is used for aggregation (e.g., GROUP BY in SQL), not for combining tables.

* Filter (Option D): Filtering selects specific rows, not relevant for combining tables.

The DA0-002 Data Acquisition and Preparation domain includes "executing data manipulation," such as joining tables to create a unified dataset.

NEW QUESTION # 43

Which of the following best describes the reason an analyst would reference a data dictionary versus a source's metadata?

- A. To find the content and specific attributes for a dataset
- B. To find a summary of basic information about the dataset
- C. To gather information about the availability of the data
- D. To gather information and resources about the data

Answer: A

Explanation:

This question is part of the Data Concepts and Environments domain, focusing on the purpose of data documentation tools like data dictionaries and metadata. The question compares their uses.

- * To gather information and resources about the data (Option A): This is too vague and not specific to a data dictionary's purpose.
- * To find the content and specific attributes for a dataset (Option B): A data dictionary provides detailed definitions of data elements (e.g., field names, types, descriptions), which is more specific than metadata, which often includes broader information like creation date or source.
- * To find a summary of basic information about the dataset (Option C): This better describes metadata, which provides high-level summaries, not detailed attributes.
- * To gather information about the availability of the data (Option D): Neither a data dictionary nor metadata typically focuses on data availability.

The DA0-002 Data Concepts and Environments domain includes understanding "data schemas and dimensions," and a data dictionary is specifically used to find detailed attributes of a dataset.
