ISQI ISTQB Certified Tester - Foundation Level Extension - Agile Tester Sample Questions (Q10-Q15):

NEW QUESTION # 10

You are developing the code that controls an industrial Espresso machine which will be operated by waiting staff in restaurants. The machine is rather complicated and has lots of switches and buttons, so in the next iteration instructions will be provided to the operator on a small LCD screen.

A User Story for the Operator-Instructions module is as follows:

"As an operator of the Espresso machine, I would like to know how to steam milk, so I can add steamed milk to the coffee."

The following is a list of risks identified for this story, with assigned probability and impact.

- A. The instructions may be incorrect or appear in the wrong order. Probability: Low. Impact: High
- B. An untrained customer will attempt to use the coffee machine. Probability: High. Impact: High
- C. Operators will not read the instructions and will try various switches and buttons until something works. Probability: Low. Impact: Low
- D. A small child may try to steam milk. Probability: High. Impact: Low

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

Risk-based testing is a technique that prioritizes testing activities based on the level of risk associated with each feature or requirement. The level of risk is usually calculated by multiplying the probability and impact of each risk. The higher the risk level, the more testing effort should be allocated to mitigate the risk. In this case, the risk level for each option is as follows:

- A). Risk level = Low x Low = Low
- B). Risk level = Low x High = Medium
- C). Risk level = High x High = High
- D). Risk level = High x Low = Medium

Therefore, the highest risk level is C, followed by B and D, and then A.

The User Story for the Operator-Instructions module should be tested according to this risk order, starting with C, then B, then D, and finally A.

Hence, the answer is B, as it is the second highest risk level and should be tested after C.

NEW QUESTION # 11

You are working on an Agile project and have been asked to implement exploratory testing for the current sprint. Which one of the following is a correct approach to adopt?

- A. Ask experienced testers to prepare test charters for time boxed sessions lasting no more than 2hours. Tests should be designed and executed within each session using heuristics, creativity and intuition.
- B. Ask experienced testers to try and find new defects by using the system without the constraint of documentation and tools.
- C. Use testers who have not been involved in the sprint to write new test cases from the user stories. These test cases are then executed in a time boxed session for the sprint.
- D. Allocate independent testers to design exploratory tests using test charters in time boxed sessions. Plan to run all sessions in parallel with each session lasting more than 5hours.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 12

During a retrospective, which of the following items would be the LEAST effective to generate discussions on process improvement?

- A. The build process was slow and this often caused delays waiting for the build to complete.
- B. One of the testers was regarded as being both disruptive and lazy and did not contribute to team success.
- C. The automation tests failed frequently without any logs to help in debugging the failure reason.
- D. For the last sprint the estimated and actual effort were much higher than the team capacity.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 13

Consider an Agile project aimed at developing a test management tool. This tool allows Test Managers to generate progress reports for test analysis, test design and test execution phases in traditional projects. Consider the following user story of this Agile project:

"As a Test Manager who is looking at a progress report, I want to be able to print this progress report, so that I can keep a hard copy for my daily records." For this user story the following acceptance criterion is defined:

"Given that I am a Test Manager looking at a progress report,

When I click the 'Print' button,

Then the progress report should be printed"

Based only on the given information, which of the following would you expect most likely to be true?

- A. Both the user story and the acceptance criterion are expressed in adequate form, but the user story does not describe functionality that is valuable to the user
- B. Both the user story and the acceptance criterion are expressed in adequate form, but the user story is not testable
- C. During the conversation, the acceptance criterion should not be discussed since it is described using the Given-When-Then template
- D. During the conversation, the need to update the acceptance criterion by specifying that a date stamp be visible on the printout could emerge

Answer: D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

From the CTFL-AT Syllabus v4.0, Section 2.1 User Stories and Acceptance Criteria, it states:

"Acceptance criteria are defined collaboratively and refined during the conversation to ensure mutual understanding. They may be added or updated as new insights emerge." This supports Option D, which reflects how acceptance criteria evolved during conversations- a key component of the "Card, Conversation, Confirmation" model.

* Option A is incorrect - the user story is testable, especially with the acceptance criterion.

* Option B is false - the story provides clear user value (printed hard copy for daily records).

* Option C is misleading - the Given-When-Then format supports discussions; it doesn't replace them.
