To configure a scenario in SAP S/4HANA Transportation Management where a single trailer is hauled by multiple trucks (e.g., in a multi-leg transport), specific customizations are required:
* Transportation unit type (A): According to the SAP documentation, the transportation unit type must be configured to allow a trailer to be defined as a separate entity that can be attached to different trucks during various stages of transport. This ensures the trailer is treated as a distinct resource.
* Freight order type (D): The freight order type must be customized to support multi-leg scenarios, including settings for stage-specific assignments of trucks to the same trailer, enabling the system to manage the trailer across multiple freight orders.
The other options are incorrect:
* Forwarding order type (B)is used for logistics service provider scenarios and does not directly manage trailer-truck assignments.

* Freight booking type (C)is relevant for ocean or air transport, not for road-based multi-truck scenarios.
