Salesforce Certified Data Architect Sample Questions (Q47-Q52):

NEW QUESTION # 47
Universal container (UC) would like to build a Human resources application on Salesforce to manage employee details, payroll, and hiring efforts. To adequately and store the relevant data, the application will need to leverage 45 custom objects. In addition to this, UC expects roughly 20,00 API calls into Salesfoce from an n-premises application daily.
Which license type should a data architect recommend that best fits these requirements?

- A. Lightning Platform plus
- B. Lightning platform Start
- C. Service Cloud

- D. Lightning External Apps Starts

Answer: A

Explanation:
Lightning Platform Plus is the license type that best fits UC's requirements, as it allows up to 50 custom objects and 40,000 API calls per user per 24-hour period4. Service Cloud does not provide enough custom objects or API calls. Lightning Platform Start only allows up to 10 custom objects and 5,000 API calls per user per 24-hour period. Lightning External Apps Start is for external users and does not provide enough API calls.

NEW QUESTION # 48

Universal Container has a Sales Cloud implementation for a sales team and an enterprise resource planning (ERP) as a customer master Sales team are complaining about duplicate account and data quality issues with account data.
Which two solutions should a data architect recommend to resolve the complaints?

- A. Integrate Salesforce with ERP, and make ERP as system of truth.
- B. Build a nightly batch job to de-dupe data, and merge account records.
- C. Build a nightly sync job from ERP to Salesforce.
- D. Implement a de-dupe solution and establish account ownership in Salesforce

Answer: A,D

Explanation:
Integrating Salesforce with ERP and making ERP the system of truth (option B) and implementing a de-dupe solution and establishing account ownership in Salesforce (option D) are the two solutions that a data architect should recommend to resolve the complaints. Option B ensures that account data is consistent and accurate across both systems, while option D prevents duplicate records and clarifies who owns each account in Salesforce. Building a nightly batch job to de-dupe data and merge account records (option A) is not a good solution, as it does not address the root cause of the duplication and may result in data loss or conflicts. Building a nightly sync job from ERP to Salesforce (option C) is also not sufficient, as it does not prevent duplication or establish ownership in Salesforce.

NEW QUESTION # 49

Universal containers is implementing Salesforce lead management. UC Procure lead data from multiple sources and would like to make sure lead data as company profile and location information. Which solution should a data architect recommend to make sure lead data has both profile and location information? Option

- A. Run reports to identify records which does not have company profile and location data
- B. Ask sales people to search for populating company profile and location data
- C. Export data out of Salesforce and send to another team to populate company profile and location data
- D. Leverage external data providers populate company profile and location data

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 50

Universal Containers is looking to use Salesforce to manage their sales organization. They will be migrating legacy account data from two aging systems into Salesforce. Which two design considerations should an architect take to minimize data duplication? Choose 2 answers

- A. Use Salesforce matching and duplicate rules.
- B. Use a workflow to check and prevent duplicates.
- C. Clean data before importing to Salesforce.
- D. Import the data concurrently.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:
Cleaning data before importing to Salesforce and using Salesforce matching and duplicate rules are two design considerations that an architect should take to minimize data duplication when migrating legacy account data from two aging systems into Salesforce.

Cleaning data before importing involves removing or correcting any inaccurate, incomplete, or inconsistent data from the source systems, as well as identifying and resolving any potential duplicates. This ensures that only high-quality and unique data is imported to Salesforce. Using Salesforce matching and duplicate rules allows the architect to define how Salesforce identifies duplicate records during import and how users can handle them. This prevents or reduces the creation of duplicate records in Salesforce and improves data quality. The other options are not effective or recommended for minimizing data duplication.

NEW QUESTION # 51

NTO (Northern Trail Outlets) has a complex Salesforce org which has been developed over past 5 years. Internal users are complaining abt multiple data issues, including incomplete and duplicate data in the org. NTO has decided to engage a data architect to analyze and define data quality standards.

Which 3 key factors should a data architect consider while defining data quality standards? Choose 3 answers:

- A. Finalize an extract transform load (ETL) tool for data migration
- B. Measure data completeness and accuracy
- C. Define data duplication standards and rules
- D. Define key fields in staging database for data cleansing
- E. Measure data timeliness and consistency

Answer: B,C,E
