Splunk IT Service Intelligence Certified Admin Sample Questions (Q83-Q88):

NEW QUESTION # 83

Which of the following actions can be performed with a deep dive?

- A. Create a custom service analyzer from selected deep dive lanes.
- B. Create a predictive analysis model from the deep dive to warn of future service degradation.
- C. Create a Multi-KPI alert from the deep dive's current state to warn of similar situations in the future.
- D. Create an anomaly detection alert to show when the same pattern begins in the future.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Deep dives in Splunk IT Service Intelligence (ITSI) allow for an in-depth analysis of services and their KPIs over time, providing a detailed view of the operational health and performance trends. One of the powerful actions that can be performed with a deep dive is the creation of a Multi-KPI alert from the deep dive's current state. This functionality enables users to define alerts based on the complex conditions observed during the deep dive analysis, allowing for the early detection of similar situations in the future. By configuring a Multi-KPI alert directly from a deep dive, ITSI users can leverage their insights and observations to proactively monitor for patterns or conditions that may indicate potential service degradation or failure, enhancing the overall responsiveness and effectiveness of the IT monitoring strategy.

NEW QUESTION # 84

Which of the following is a recommended best practice for service and glass table design?

- A. Always use the standard icons for glass table widgets to improve portability.
- B. Plan and implement services first, then build detailed glass tables.
- C. Design glass tables first to discover which KPIs are important.
- D. Start with base searches, then services, and then glass tables.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Reference:

A is the correct answer because it is recommended to plan and implement services first, then build detailed glass tables that reflect the service hierarchy and dependencies. This way, you can ensure that your glass tables provide accurate and meaningful service-level insights. Building glass tables first might lead to unnecessary or irrelevant KPIs that do not align with your service goals.

NEW QUESTION # 85

What is the range for a normal Service Health score category?

- A. 40-60
- B. 80-100
- C. 60-80
- D. 20-40

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Splunk IT Service Intelligence (ITSI), the Service Health Score is a metric that provides a quantifiable measure of the overall health and performance of a service. The score ranges from 0 to 100, with higher scores indicating better health. The range for a normal Service Health score category is typically from 80 to 100. Scores within this range suggest that the service is performing well, with no significant issues affecting its health. This categorization helps IT and business stakeholders quickly assess the operational status of their services, enabling them to focus on services that may require attention or intervention due to lower health scores.

NEW QUESTION # 86

Which capabilities are enabled through "teams"?

- A. Teams allow restrictions to service content in UI views.
- B. Teams allow searches against the itsi_summary index.
- C. Teams restrict notable event alert actions.
- D. Teams restrict searches against the itsi_notable_audit index.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

Teams provide presentation-layer security only and not data-level security. It's still possible for a user with access to the Splunk search bar to look up ITSI summary index data.

NEW QUESTION # 87

Which deep dive swim lane type does not require writing SPL?

- A. Automatic lane.
- B. Metric lane.
- C. KPI lane.
- D. Event lane.

Answer: C

Explanation:

A KPI lane is a type of deep dive swim lane that does not require writing SPL. You can simply select a service and a KPI from a drop-down list and ITSI will automatically populate the lane with the corresponding data. You can also adjust the threshold settings and time range for the KPI lane. References: [KPI Lanes]
