Cisco Designing and Implementing Enterprise Network Assurance Sample Questions (Q59-Q64):

NEW QUESTION # 59
In data analysis, which collected data is analyzed to diagnose web application performance issues?

- A. Browser waterfalls
- B. CPU utilization
- C. Packet loss
- D. Network latency

Answer: A

Explanation:
In data analysis, browser waterfalls are analyzed to diagnose web application performance issues. Browser waterfalls provide a visual representation of the sequence and timing of resource loading within a web page, helping identify bottlenecks, latency issues, and performance optimizations to enhance user experience and page load times.

NEW QUESTION # 60
Which of the following metrics can be used to configure an alert rule for Endpoint Agent HTTP Server tests?
(Choose two)

- A. Interface Throughput
- B. Error Type
- C. BGP Reachability
- D. Response Time

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

In the ThousandEyes platform, alert rules are the primary mechanism for notifying operations teams when performance thresholds are breached. When configuring alerts forEndpoint Agent HTTP Server tests, the available metrics are limited to those that the Endpoint Agent captures during its synthetic browser-based or network-layer probes.

The two correct metrics for this test type areResponse Time(Option A) andError Type(Option C).

* Response Time:This metric measures the time-to-first-byte. It is essential for detecting degradations in web application performance as seen from the user's specific machine.

* Error Type:This allows administrators to trigger alerts based on specific HTTP response codes or protocol errors (e.g., DNS failures or SSL handshake issues).

Other options are incorrect because they apply to different agent types or monitoring layers:

* BGP Reachability (Option B):BGP metrics are not applicable to Endpoint Agent tests. These metrics require the BGP route visualization layer, which is typically associated with Cloud or Enterprise Agents monitoring public internet paths.

* Interface Throughput (Option D):This is an infrastructure-level metric rather than a synthetic application metric. While ThousandEyes can monitor device health via SNMP, it is not a metric used in a synthetic HTTP Server test.

By utilizing Response Time and Error Type, an architect can ensure that the operations team is alerted as soon as users experience slow loading or actual failures when accessing critical internal or SaaS-based web applications.

NEW QUESTION # 61

When configuring alert rules for CPU utilization, which threshold is typically set to trigger an alert?

- A. Fluctuating CPU usage
- B. Moderate CPU usage
- C. Low CPU usage
- D. High CPU usage

Answer: D

Explanation:
When configuring alert rules for CPU utilization, a threshold for high CPU usage is typically set to trigger an alert. High CPU usage can indicate resource contention, bottlenecks, or performance degradation, requiring immediate attention to prevent service disruptions or slowdowns.

NEW QUESTION # 62

When determining the optimal location for deploying network agents, what factor is crucial for minimizing latency?

- A. Distance from the marketing department
- B. Availability of office amenities
- C. Proximity to end-users
- D. Accessibility to external vendors

Answer: C

Explanation:
Deploying network agents close to end-users minimizes latency and ensures efficient data collection.

NEW QUESTION # 63

What aspect of DNS is typically evaluated during network tests?

- A. Network throughput
- B. CPU utilization
- C. Domain resolution speed
- D. Server uptime

Answer: C

Explanation:
Domain resolution speed is typically evaluated during network tests to assess the performance and reliability of DNS servers.
