CompTIA Cloud Essentials+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q598-Q603):

NEW QUESTION # 598

Which of the following would help a company avoid failure of a cloud project due to a lack of adherence of the company's operations and business processes to a cloud solution?

- A. Proof of value
- B. Industry benchmarks
- C. Cloud managed services
- D. Company baseline

Answer: A

Explanation:

A proof of value (POV) is a method of testing a cloud solution before fully adopting it, to ensure that it meets the company's operations and business processes. A POV can help a company avoid failure of a cloud project by validating the feasibility, functionality, and benefits of the cloud solution, and identifying any gaps or issues that need to be resolved. A POV can also help a company compare different cloud solutions and select the best one for their needs. A POV is different from a proof of concept (POC), which is a more technical demonstration of the cloud solution's capabilities and performance. NEW QUESTION # 599

A small online retailer is looking for a solution to handle the high load on its servers during the holiday season. The retailer is not currently ready to move its IT operations completely to the cloud.

Which of the following will BEST fit these requirements?

- A. Scalability
- B. Self-service
- C. Elasticity
- D. Bursting

Answer: D

Explanation:

Cloud bursting is a configuration method that uses cloud computing resources whenever on-premises infrastructure reaches peak capacity. When organizations run out of computing resources in their internal data center, they burst the extra workload to external third-party cloud services. Cloud bursting is a convenient and cost-effective way to support workloads with varying demand patterns and seasonal spikes in demand^{1,2}. Elasticity and scalability are related concepts, but they are not specific solutions for the retailer's problem. Elasticity refers to the ability of a cloud service to automatically adjust the amount of resources allocated to a workload based on the current demand³. Scalability refers to the ability of a cloud service to handle increasing or decreasing workloads by adding or removing resources⁴. Self-service is a feature of cloud computing that allows users to provision, manage, and monitor their own cloud resources without the need for human intervention⁵. While these features are beneficial for cloud consumers, they do not address the retailer's need to handle the high load on its servers during the holiday season without moving its IT operations completely to the cloud.

NEW QUESTION # 600

Which of the following is the MOST significant risk to business continuity when using an external cloud service provider?

- A. Vendor being purchased
- B. Unauthorized access to customer data
- C. Vendor going out of business
- D. Virtual server failure

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 601

Cloud computing can BEST reduce costs for a business by:

- A. Increasing available data storage.
- B. Increasing sales potential.
- C. Utilizing services as needed.
- D. Utilizing local resources.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 602

Which of the following models provides the SMALLEST amount of technical overhead?

- A. IaaS
- B. MaaS
- C. PaaS
- D. SaaS

Answer: D

Explanation:

SaaS, or software as a service, is a cloud computing model that provides on-demand access to ready-to-use, cloud-hosted application software. SaaS customers do not need to install, configure, manage, or maintain any hardware or software infrastructure to use the applications. The cloud service provider is responsible for all the technical aspects of the service, such as hosting, security, performance, availability, updates, and backups. SaaS customers only need an internet connection and a web browser or a mobile app to access the applications. SaaS provides the smallest amount of technical overhead for customers, as they do not have to deal with any of the underlying infrastructure or platform components. SaaS customers can focus on using the applications for their business needs, without worrying about the technical details.

Some examples of SaaS applications are Gmail, Google Docs, Salesforce, Slack, and Zoom.
