NEW QUESTION # 79

The owner of a local flower shop makes cash deposits on a regular basis to the shop's business account. Following the deposits, the owner wires the money to a high-risk country. Which action should a KYC analyst perform when conducting the periodic CDD review?

- A. Report a suspicious transaction with respect to wiring money to a high-risk country.
- B. Review the business activities and update where necessary.
- C. End the business relationship due to wiring money to a high-risk country.
- D. Review the account activity with respect to the transaction profile of the customer.

Answer: D

Explanation:

During a periodic CDD review, the analyst should assess whether the account activity, including cash deposits and transfers to high-risk countries, aligns with the customer's stated transaction profile. This step determines if further escalation or reporting is necessary.

NEW QUESTION # 80

A physical person assessed as a medium-risk customer makes an extraordinary large cash deposit in his account at a financial institution. The customer is unable to provide an explanation for the large cash deposit. Which action should be taken next?
