NEW QUESTION # 169
A customer requests some changes to a product, and those changes are approved by the CCB. Which of the following should be changed first?

- A. ROI
- B. KPI
- C. RACI
- D. SOW

Answer: D

Explanation:
The SOW (statement of work) is a document that defines the scope, deliverables, schedule, and resources of a project. It is a contractual agreement between the buyer and the seller that should be changed first when there are approved changes to the product. Changing the SOW will ensure that the project expectations and requirements are updated and aligned with the customer's requests. The other options are not documents that need to be changed first, but rather metrics or tools that can be used to measure or manage the project.

NEW QUESTION # 170
Which of the following best describes the reason a chat messaging service would be used as the primary form of communication for a project team?

- A. The team is working remotely two days per week.
- B. The team is based in the same office but has a large number of members.
- C. The team is working in different rooms within the same building.
- D. The team has members distributed around the world in different time zones.

Answer: D

Explanation:
Chat messaging services are particularly effective for teams that are distributed globally across different time zones. These tools facilitate asynchronous communication, allowing team members to send and receive messages at their convenience, which is crucial when real-time communication is challenging due to time differences. This ensures continuous collaboration and information sharing without the constraints of synchronous meetings.
According to the CompTIA Project+ PK0-005 exam objectives, under Domain 3.2: Compare and contrast various project management productivity tools, chat messaging is highlighted as a key communication tool for distributed teams.

NEW QUESTION # 171
A project team is working remotely from different locations across the country. As part of a lessons-learned exercise, the project manager would like to identify the level of engagement among project team members. Which of the following would be the best tool for the project manager to use?

- A. Email
- B. Whiteboard
- C. Meeting chat

- D. Real-time survey

Answer: D

Explanation:
A real-time survey is a tool that allows the project manager to collect feedback from the project team members in an interactive and timely manner. A real-time survey can measure the level of engagement, satisfaction, motivation, and performance of the team members, as well as identify any issues, challenges, or opportunities for improvement. A real-time survey can also increase the participation and collaboration of the team members, as they can see the results and comments of their peers instantly. A real-time survey is more effective than a meeting chat, an email, or a whiteboard, as it can reach a larger and more diverse audience, provide more structured and quantitative data, and avoid distractions and interruptions. - D. Plan a kickoff meeting
