NEW QUESTION # 129

Identify the transformation type in which a transactional item attribute is used for transforming a product. The transformation may be added to the existing product or replace the product on the sales order for a CTO item.

- A. Context to Product
- B. Product to Product
- C. Attribute to Attribute
- D. Attribute to Product

Answer: D

Explanation:

An attribute-to-product transformation uses transactional attributes to transform an attribute to an item number. It can add the transformation to an existing item or replace the item that the source order references.

Assume your company receives orders for an MP3 player that includes a Color attribute and a Size attribute, and that you must use a combination of these attributes to reference an item number. In the following example, a transformation rule transforms the Color and Size attributes of the Mini Plus item to the VIS481 item. Order Management displays VIS481 on the order line.

NEW QUESTION # 130

Which two attributes can you use to group shipment lines into a single shipment? (Choose two.)

- A. Sales Order
- B. Ship-to location
- C. FOB
- D. Item
- E. Carrier

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

A shipment comprises a set of shipment lines, grouped by certain common shipping attributes, that are scheduled to be shipped to a customer's ship-to location on a specific date and time. You can include items from different sales orders in a shipment. You can either manually or automatically group shipment lines to create a shipment. The shipment lines are grouped by the mandatory default criteria: ship-from location and ship-to location. However, you may also include additional grouping criteria, such as customer, freight terms, FOB (Free on board), and shipping method.

NEW QUESTION # 131

You deployed the Extensible Flexfield (EFF) successfully but it is not visible in the order capture additional information section. What are the two reasons for this?

- A. The EFF definition needs to be frozen.
- B. The EFF segments are incomplete.
- C. The custom extensible flexfields are not published.
- D. The EFF has not been compiled.
- E. The EFF context is not associated with the page.

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

These are the two reasons why the Extensible Flexfield (EFF) is not visible in the order capture additional information section. An EFF is a user-defined flexfield that you can use to capture additional information on sales orders, such as trade compliance, call center details, or source order status¹. To make an EFF visible in the order capture additional information section, you need to perform the following steps²:

* Associate the EFF context with the page: You need to specify which page in the Order Management work area will display the EFF, such as the order header or the order line. You can use the Pages tab in the Manage Order Extensible Flexfields task to associate the EFF context with the page.

* Publish the custom extensible flexfields: You need to deploy the EFF to the database and make it available for use. You can use the Deploy Flexfield task to publish the custom extensible flexfields.

NEW QUESTION # 132

Your procurement organization has a requirement to include order information from a sales order with their purchase order documents. Service mappings can be used to help meet their specific integration requirements for their supply chain tools.

If you need to integrate objects from a sales order with a purchase order, which three supply chain modules would be required?

- A. Business Process Management Cloud
- B. Procurement Cloud
- C. Supply Chain Orchestration Cloud
- D. Supply Planning Cloud
- E. Order Management Cloud

Answer: B,C,E

Explanation:

Service mappings are used to integrate Order Management with other Oracle applications by mapping attributes from a sales order to a purchase order. Service mappings enable you to pass order information from a sales order to a purchase order document, such as supplier, item, quantity, price, and so on. To use service mappings, you need three supply chain modules: Supply Chain Orchestration Cloud, Procurement Cloud, and Order Management Cloud. Supply Chain Orchestration Cloud is the module that creates and manages the purchase order document based on the sales order information. Procurement Cloud is the module that provides the functionality to manage suppliers, purchase agreements, and requisitions. Order Management Cloud is the module that captures and fulfills the sales order.
