Google Cloud Certified - Professional Google Workspace Administrator Sample Questions (Q32-Q37):

NEW QUESTION # 32

A user is reporting that after they sign in to Gmail, their labels are not loading and buttons are not responsive. What action should you take to troubleshoot this issue with the user?

- A. Check whether the issue occurs when the user authenticates on a different device or a new incognito window.
- B. Check whether traceroute to service.google.com (pop.gmail.com or imap.gmail.com) is successful.
- C. Check whether a ping test to service.google.com (pop.gmail.com or imap.gmail.com) is successful.
- D. Collect full message headers for examination.

Answer: A

Explanation:

* Testing on Different Device or Incognito Window:

* This helps determine if the issue is related to the user's current device, browser, or cached data.

* Incognito mode runs a clean session without extensions or cached data, which can help identify if browser settings or cache are causing the issue.

* Steps to Test:

* Ask the user to sign in to Gmail on a different device (e.g., another computer or mobile phone).

* Alternatively, instruct the user to open a new incognito or private browsing window in their browser and sign in to Gmail.

* Observe if the problem persists in these different environments.

NEW QUESTION # 33

Your company operates several primary care clinics where employees routinely work with protected health information (PHI). You are in the process of transitioning the organization to Google Workspace from a legacy communication and collaboration system. After you sign the Business Associate Agreement (BAA), you need to ensure that data is handled in compliance with regulations when using Google Workspace. What should you do?

- A. Disable integrations with third-party apps and turn off non-core Google services.
- B. Create a label for Google Drive content to help employees identify sensitive data.

- C. Instruct the staff to not store any PHI in Google Workspace core services, including Google Drive, Docs, Sheets, and Keep.
- D. Implement a third-party backup service that is also compliant with Google Workspace core services.

Answer: B

Explanation:

To ensure compliance with regulations when handling protected health information (PHI) in Google Workspace, creating labels for sensitive data, such as PHI, helps employees identify and manage this information properly. Labels can be used to mark files that contain sensitive data, providing an additional layer of organization and protection. This approach aligns with regulatory requirements by ensuring that employees can easily distinguish PHI from other data and apply the necessary policies and security measures.

NEW QUESTION # 34

The credentials of several individuals within your organization have recently been stolen. Using the Google Workspace login logs, you have determined that in several cases, the stolen credentials have been used in countries other than the ones your organization works in. What else can you do to increase your organization's defense-in-depth strategy?

- A. Use Mobile device management geo-fencing to prevent malicious actors from using these stolen credentials.
- B. Implement an IP block on the malicious user's IPs under Security Settings in the Admin Console.
- C. Use Context-Aware Access to deny access to Google services from geo locations other than the ones your organization operates in.
- D. Enforce higher complexity passwords by rolling it out to the affected users.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Access Context-Aware Access Settings: In the Google Admin console, navigate to Security > Context-Aware Access.

Define Access Levels: Create access levels that specify the allowed geographical locations where your organization operates.

Apply Access Levels to Apps: Apply these access levels to Google Workspace applications to ensure that access is restricted based on the defined geographical locations.

Configure Policies: Set policies that deny access to Google services from locations outside the defined areas.

Test Configuration: Test the context-aware access settings to ensure they are working correctly and that unauthorized access attempts from other locations are blocked.

Monitor and Adjust: Continuously monitor the login activity and adjust the access levels as necessary to maintain security.
