NEW QUESTION # 612

Which of the following best describes the type of cloud a healthcare company should use for a patient record portal?

- A. Community
- B. public
- C. Hybrid
- D. Private

Answer: D

Explanation:

A patient record portal is a web-based application that allows patients to access their health information, such as medical history, test results, prescriptions, and appointments. A patient record portal needs to be secure, reliable, and compliant with the health data regulations of the country or region where it operates¹.

The type of cloud that best describes the type of cloud a healthcare company should use for a patient record portal is D. Private. A private cloud is a cloud computing model that is dedicated to a single organization and provides exclusive access and control over its resources and data². A private cloud can offer the following benefits for a patient record portal:

* Enhanced security and privacy: A private cloud can protect the sensitive health data from unauthorized access or breaches by using encryption, firewalls, authentication, and other security measures. A private cloud can also comply with the health data regulations, such as HIPAA in the US or GDPR in the EU, by ensuring that the data is stored and processed within the jurisdiction of the organization³.

* Improved performance and reliability: A private cloud can optimize the speed and availability of the patient record portal by using dedicated servers, network bandwidth, and storage capacity. A private cloud can also ensure that the patient record portal can handle high demand and traffic without compromising its quality or functionality³.

* Greater customization and flexibility: A private cloud can tailor the patient record portal to the specific * needs and preferences of the organization and its patients by using customized applications, interfaces, and features. A private cloud can also scale up or down the resources and services of the patient record portal as needed without affecting its performance or cost³.

NEW QUESTION # 613

A user regularly travels to multiple sites to take pictures with a mobile device and transfers those pictures to a computer via a removable SD card. Recently, the SD card was damaged and had to be replaced. Now, the user is unable to save pictures to the new SD card. Which of the following should the user verify first so pictures can be saved to the SD card?

- A. The card is correctly formatted.
- B. The card is not locked.
- C. The card is a storage device.
- D. The card is initialized.

Answer: B

Explanation:

When a user is unable to save pictures to a new SD card after replacing a damaged one, the first thing to check is whether the card is locked. Many SD cards have a physical switch on the side that can be toggled to a "locked" position, which prevents data from being written to the card.

Ensuring the switch is in the "unlocked" position allows the device to save data to the SD card.
