VMware Avi Load Balancer 30.x Administrator Sample Questions (Q131-Q136):

NEW QUESTION # 131

An administrator needs to implement session persistence for a web application based on a custom cookie named APP_SESSION_ID. When a client makes its first request, the server sets this cookie. The load balancer must read this cookie in subsequent requests to ensure the client is sent back to the same server. Why is this only possible with an L7 virtual service?

- A. The APP_SESSION_ID must be manually configured on the L4 Application Profile.
- B. Only L7 virtual services can be deployed in a highly available configuration.
- C. L4 virtual services do not have access to a pool of backend servers.

- D. Reading an HTTP cookie requires the Service Engine to parse the application-layer payload.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 132

An Operator is monitoring a virtual service whose Health Score has just dropped from 100 to 60.

The Operator reviews the Health Score components and notes that the Anomaly Score is the only component that has decreased significantly. What could have caused this specific drop?

- Health Score: 60
- Performance Score: 100
- Resource Score: 100
- Anomaly Score: 0
- Security Score: 100

- A. The average application response time has increased from 50ms to 500ms.
- B. The application has started returning HTTP 500 errors to users.
- C. One of the backend servers in the pool has been marked down by a health monitor.
- D. The number of concurrent client connections suddenly dropped by 90% compared to the established baseline.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 133

The "N" in N+M Elastic HA refers to which Service Engine Group parameter?

- A. Maximum number of Virtual Services per Service Engine
- B. Number of buffer Service Engines
- C. Minimum scale per Virtual Service
- D. Maximum number of Service Engines

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Avi Load Balancer Elastic HA N+M mode, the Service Engine Group maintains a defined active scale and buffer capacity for redundancy and placement flexibility. VMware Avi documentation explains that in N+M mode, N represents the minimum number of Service Engines required for a Virtual Service, while M represents the spare or buffer capacity that Avi attempts to maintain across the Service Engine Group. This means N is related to the minimum active scale for the Virtual Service, not the total maximum number of Service Engines in the group, not the number of buffer Service Engines, and not the maximum number of Virtual Services per Service Engine. Therefore, the correct parameter for N is Minimum scale per Virtual Service.

NEW QUESTION # 134

When importing a new SSL/TLS certificate into the Avi Controller, an administrator notices the certificate's key is much shorter than a typical RSA key but is labeled as being highly secure. The key begins with -----BEGIN EC PRIVATE KEY-----. What does this indicate?

- A. The private key has been compressed to save space.
- B. The certificate is intended for a non-production environment only.
- C. The private key is encrypted and its full length is hidden.
- D. The certificate is using Elliptic Curve cryptography.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 135

In a Service Engine Group configured for N+M high availability, what is the state of the 'M' buffer Service Engines during normal operation?

- A. They are active and processing traffic alongside the 'N' primary Service Engines.

- B. They are powered off and are powered on by the Avi Controller only when a failure occurs.
- C. They are used exclusively for processing health monitor traffic to reduce the load on the active SEs.
- D. They are powered on and running, but are kept idle (not hosting any virtual services), ready to take over in case of a failure.

Answer: D
