Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 94

In the OSPF protocol for wide area networks, what is the function of Type 4 LSA (ASBR Summary LSA)?

- A. Describes the location information of the ASBR, used by routers within the area to locate the ASBR.
- B. Describes external routing information for the AS and propagates it throughout the AS.

- D. Describe summarized routes between areas to reduce routing table entries.

Answer: A

- B. Static route timeout mechanism (default 3 minutes)
- C. Manual ping test
- D. OSPF hello protocol (default 10s detection)

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 96

- D. Automatic network topology discovery and visualization
- E. No alarm mechanism; faults require manual inspection to detect.

Answer: A,C,D

NEW QUESTION # 97

(On a virtualized campus network deployed using iMaster NCE-Campus, implementing mutual access between users in different virtual networks only requires the administrator to deploy a policy control matrix on iMaster NCE-Campus.)

- A. TRUE
- B. FALSE

Answer: B

Explanation:

In a virtualized campus network built with iMaster NCE-Campus, virtual networks (VNs) are designed to be logically isolated by default. This isolation is achieved through VXLAN and VPN instances, ensuring that users in different VNs cannot communicate unless explicit interconnection mechanisms are configured. While the policy control matrix is an important component of access control, it is not sufficient by itself to implement mutual access between users in different VNs.

According to HCIP Datacom Campus Network documentation, the policy control matrix is used to define inter-group or inter-user access permissions, typically based on security groups. It controls whether traffic is permitted, denied, or restricted between different user groups. However, the policy control matrix only defines security policy behavior and does not establish Layer 3 connectivity between isolated virtual networks.

To enable mutual access between users in different VNs, the administrator must also configure inter-VN connectivity mechanisms, such as external networks, border nodes, or route import and export policies. This includes enabling route exchange between VPN instances using BGP EVPN and configuring appropriate gateway or routing paths. Only after Layer 3 reachability is established can the policy control matrix take effect to permit or restrict traffic.

Therefore, deploying a policy control matrix alone does not meet the technical requirements for inter-VN communication.

Both connectivity configuration and policy control are required. Hence, the statement is incorrect, and the correct answer is FALSE.
