- A. Creating a daily demand forecast
- B. Optimizing transportation routes
- C. Selecting the target market for a product
- D. Identifying constraints within a facility

Answer: D

Explanation:

An advanced planning and scheduling (APS) system is designed to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of the production process. Its primary functions include:

* Constraint Identification: APS systems are highly effective at identifying constraints within a facility, such as bottlenecks, capacity limits, and material shortages. By pinpointing these constraints, the system helps in planning and optimizing the use of available resources.

- * Production Optimization: They optimize scheduling by considering various constraints and ensuring that production schedules align with capacity and material availability.
- * Scenario Analysis: APS systems allow for the simulation of different production scenarios to determine the best course of action in response to changing conditions.
- * Real-Time Adjustments: They provide real-time data and feedback, enabling quick adjustments to production plans to address issues as they arise.
