What should the administrator have done to prevent this issue?

- A. Use the license file in read-only mode to extend the license
- B. Configure the ArcGIS Enterprise portal to send an automated email when the portal license is expiring
- C. Design an information banner to automatically display the license expiration date
- D. Create a Python script to run an administrative report and schedule the script to run regularly

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 69
A GIS administrator is analyzing the usage statistics of ArcGIS Enterprise. The administrator needs to pull tabular statistics on various groups and users about the type of content that they produce and consume.
Which action should the administrator perform?

- A. Use ArcGIS Monitor to capture desired information over a period of time in a report.
- B. Run usage reports in Portal for ArcGIS to determine the effect on the organization.
- C. Open ArcGIS Server statistics to create a report for commonly used items.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 70
A GIS administrator receives reports from users about a map service that is slow to draw. The service has the following characteristics:
* Numerous detailed features
* Complex symbology
* Scale-dependent rendering
* Infrequently updated
* Query capability enabled
* Uses shared instances
Which action should the administrator perform?

- A. Eliminate scale-dependent rendering
- B. Configure the map service to use cached tiles
- C. Use dedicated instances instead of shared instances

Answer: B

Explanation:
For map services that are infrequently updated and contain numerous detailed features with complex symbology, configuring the service to use cached tiles is the most effective way to improve drawing performance. Cached map services pre-render map images at various scales and store them, allowing for faster display to users. This approach is particularly beneficial when the data does not change frequently, as it reduces the server's processing load during user interactions.
Eliminating scale-dependent rendering (Option B) may lead to performance degradation, as it could result in rendering all features at all scales, increasing the amount of data processed and displayed unnecessarily.
Switching to dedicated instances (Option C) can improve performance in some scenarios, but it also increases resource usage on the server. Given that the service is infrequently updated and the primary concern is drawing performance, caching is the more efficient and scalable solution.

NEW QUESTION # 71
A client wants to performincremental webgisdr backupsdaily and full backups weekly. They store all data in therelational ArcGIS Data Store, withno tile or map caches.
Which action is required to enable incremental backups?

- A. Increase the heap size of ArcGIS Data Store
- B. Decrease the max connections during backups
- C. Enable point-in-time recovery on ArcGIS Data Store

Answer: C

Explanation:
To performincremental backupsusing thewebgisdr tool,point-in-time recoverymust be enabled on the relational data store. This creates transaction logs needed for differential backups and aligns with best practices for enterprise-level backup strategies.
From Esri documentation:
"Incremental backups can only be used with a relational data store when point-in-time recovery is enabled.
This enables transaction log capture needed for delta backups."
* OptionAis unrelated to backup functionality.
* OptionCis not required unless performance tuning is needed.
