SAP S/4HANA Cloud Private Edition - Production Planning and Manufacturing Sample Questions (Q78-Q83):

NEW QUESTION # 78

Your company manufactures materials whose characteristics differ for each manufacturing process.

Which application do you have to use in SAP S/4HANA Cloud Private Edition to be able to track use this information in all areas of logistics?

- A. Quality management
- B. Batch management
- C. Process order management
- D. Engineering change management

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 79

Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Purchase order
- B. Scheduling agreement schedule line
- C. Production order
- D. Planned order

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION # 80

Under what circumstances can you change the material type for a material if stocks reservations or purchasing documents exist?

Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. The same base unit of measure is used.
- B. The quantity value updates are the same.
- C. The same batch management level is used.
- D. The same account category is used.

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION # 81

You are a consultant on an SAP S/4HANA Cloud Greenfield project. Which of the following aspects should you focus on to achieve and maintain clean core data quality? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Accuracy
- B. Timeliness
- C. Efficiency
- D. Stability

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

In an SAP S/4HANA Cloud Greenfield project, clean core focuses on a standardized, extensible system with high-quality data. Key aspects for data quality include:

* Efficiency(A): Clean core principles prioritize efficient processes and data structures, minimizing customizations that could degrade performance or complicate upgrades. Efficient data quality ensures streamlined operations (e.g., fast MRP runs) and leverages standard SAP functionalities effectively.

* Stability(D): Maintaining a stable core with consistent, reliable data (e.g., master data integrity in MM03) prevents disruptions during updates or extensions. Stability ensures the system remains robust and predictable, a cornerstone of clean core in a Greenfield implementation.

Accuracy(B) is critical for data quality in general (e.g., correct BOM quantities), but clean core emphasizes systemic qualities over content accuracy, which is assumed. Timeliness(C) matters for operational data (e.g., stock updates), but it's less tied to clean core's structural focus. This is per SAP's clean core guidelines.

NEW QUESTION # 82

Which time elements are part of a routing operation? Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. Float before production
- B. Setup time
- C. Queue time
- D. Pick/pack time
- E. Move Time

Answer: B,C,E

Explanation:

A routing operation is a step in the production process that defines the work center, the duration, and the sequence of the operation. A routing operation consists of several time elements that are used to calculate the operation start and finish dates, as well as the capacity requirements. The time elements that are part of a routing operation are:

Move time: The time required to move the material from one work center to another, or from the storage location to the work center.

Setup time: The time required to prepare the work center for the operation, such as changing tools, adjusting machines, or cleaning the work area.

Processing time: The time required to perform the operation, such as machining, assembling, or testing the product.

Teardown time: The time required to restore the work center to its original state after the operation, such as removing tools, resetting machines, or disposing of waste.

Queue time: The time that the material waits at the work center before the operation starts, due to the work center being occupied by another operation or having a fixed start date.

The pick/pack time and the float before production are not part of a routing operation. The pick/pack time is the time required to pick the material from the storage location and pack it for delivery, which is usually part of the outbound logistics process. The float before production is the time buffer before the scheduled start date of the production order, which can be used to compensate for delays or changes in the production plan.
