ISQI ISTQB Certified Tester-Foundation Level - Usability Testing Sample Questions (Q25-Q30):

NEW QUESTION # 25

In a short conversation, a potential customer mentions that accessibility is of great importance to them. What does this mean?

- A. They focus on quantitative usability evaluations
- B. They focus on agile development
- C. They also seek to address users with limitations
- D. They use prototyping in their development process

Answer: C

Explanation:

When a customer emphasizes the importance of accessibility, it means they are concerned with ensuring that users with disabilities or limitations are not excluded from using their products or services. Accessibility is about inclusiveness-providing equal access and opportunity to all users regardless of physical or cognitive ability. Option C directly reflects this understanding. The other options (A, B, and D) are aspects of usability or development methodologies but do not relate to addressing the needs of users with disabilities, which is the core focus of accessibility.

NEW QUESTION # 26

What's the difference between an informal usability review and an expert usability review?

- A. An informal review only requires one reviewer
- B. Contrary to an expert review, an informal usability review is based on opinion
- C. An expert usability review is a formal review, not an informal review
- D. No formal usability qualifications are required for an informal usability review

Answer: D

Explanation:

An informal usability review can be conducted by anyone, including stakeholders or developers, and does not require formal usability training or qualifications. It is typically subjective and based on general impressions.

In contrast, an expert usability review (also called heuristic evaluation) is conducted by a trained usability expert who applies recognized usability principles. This is what differentiates the two approaches most clearly. Options A and C are misleading; expert reviews can be informal in format, and informal reviews aren't necessarily based solely on opinion. Option D is incorrect since both informal and expert reviews can be conducted individually or in groups.

NEW QUESTION # 27

You are asked to evaluate the usability of a software application for a law firm. Due to time and budget constraints, it is not possible to include users in the evaluation process.

Which of the following is a valid approach for evaluating the usability in this case?

- A. Usability testing
- B. Accessibility Evaluation
- C. Usability Review
- D. User surveys

Answer: C

Explanation:

When actual users cannot be included, a usability review (often an expert or heuristic evaluation) is the most practical method. Trained evaluators examine the interface against usability principles and standards to identify potential issues. Surveys require user input, and usability testing cannot proceed without users.

Accessibility evaluation targets inclusivity for users with impairments, which is related but not a substitute for overall usability evaluation. Therefore, option A is the only valid method under these constraints.

NEW QUESTION # 28

You're asked to evaluate the direct interaction between ordinary users and the software product. Which kinds of evaluations would be suited for that?

- A. Accessibility evaluation
- B. Usability evaluation
- C. Risk assessment
- D. Usability maturity assessment

Answer: B

Explanation:

A usability evaluation is specifically designed to assess how real users interact with a software product. It focuses on effectiveness, efficiency, and user satisfaction in completing tasks. This may involve usability testing, expert reviews, or heuristic evaluations. The goal is to identify any usability problems and understand user behavior during real use.

Option A (Accessibility evaluation) targets inclusivity for users with disabilities, not general user interaction.

Option B (Usability maturity assessment) evaluates the organization's usability practices, and Option C (Risk assessment) evaluates potential project or system risks. Only option D directly involves observing and measuring user interaction.

NEW QUESTION # 29

The usability team has written a usability test report. The report has the following structure:

Executive summary (1 page)

Findings and recommendations (5 pages)

Objectives (2 pages)

Purpose (2 pages)

Contacts (1 page)

Which best practice does this usability test report violate?

- A. The report misses positive findings
- B. The report misses a description of the evaluation method
- C. The report is too long
- D. The report makes use of usability jargon

Answer: B

Explanation:

A best practice in usability reporting (based on ISO/IEC 25062:2006 - Common Industry Format for usability test reports) is to include a clear description of the evaluation method used. This includes how the test was designed, how participants were selected, what tasks were performed, and under what conditions the test was conducted. This ensures the results are credible and reproducible. The provided structure omits this essential information. While the report length is not excessive and positive findings may or may not be present, the key missing component is the method description.
