NEW QUESTION # 121

A company needs to prepare a document that establishes the responsibilities, metrics, penalties, and other generalities that a provider would have to fulfill for customers to use its platforms.

Which of the following documents meets these requirements?

- A. SOW
- B. SLA
- C. DOU
- D. MOU

Answer: B

Explanation:

The document that meets these requirements is an SLA. An SLA, or Service Level Agreement, is a contract between a service provider and a customer that defines the scope, quality, and terms of the service delivery. An SLA typically includes the responsibilities, metrics, penalties, and other generalities that a provider would have to fulfill for customers to use its platforms. An SLA also establishes the expectations and obligations of both parties, as well as the methods for measuring and monitoring the service performance. The other options are either different types of documents or not related to service delivery. For example, a DOU, or Data Use Agreement, is a document that governs the sharing and use of data between parties; an MOU, or Memorandum of Understanding, is a document that expresses a mutual agreement or intention between parties; a SOW, or Statement of Work, is a document that describes the specific tasks and deliverables of a project or contract. Reference: CompTIA DataSys+ Course Outline, Domain 2.0 Database Deployment, Objective 2.4 Given a scenario, implement service level agreements.

NEW QUESTION # 122

Five minutes after a power failure occurred in a data center, a CO2 system was automatically triggered. Which of the following caused the CO2 system to start?

- A. RTO settings were configured to be applied in a short time frame.
- B. High temperatures activated the fire suppression system
- C. RPO settings were configured to be applied in a short time frame.
- D. A cooling system set off the CO2 system in order to protect the equipment.

Answer: B

Explanation:

CO2 systems are fire suppression mechanisms that are triggered by high temperatures, which can occur after a power failure disables cooling systems and causes equipment to overheat.

NEW QUESTION # 123

Which of the following constraints is used to enforce referential integrity?

- A. Surrogate key
- B. Primary key
- C. Unique key
- D. Foreign key

Answer: D

Explanation:

The constraint that is used to enforce referential integrity is foreign key. A foreign key is a column or a set of columns in a table that references the primary key of another table. A primary key is a column or a set of columns in a table that uniquely identifies each row in the table. Referential integrity is a rule that ensures that the values in the foreign key column match the values in the primary key column of the referenced table. Referential integrity helps maintain the consistency and accuracy of the data across related tables.

The other options are either different types of constraints or not related to referential integrity at all. For example, a surrogate key is a column that is artificially generated to serve as a primary key, such as an auto-increment number or a GUID (Globally Unique Identifier); a unique key is a column or a set of columns in a table that uniquely identifies each row in the table, but it can have null values unlike a primary key; there is no such constraint as TID. Reference: CompTIA DataSys+ Course Outline, Domain 1.0 Database Fundamentals, Objective 1.2 Given a scenario, execute database tasks using scripting and programming languages.

NEW QUESTION # 124

A database administrator is updating an organization's ERD. Which of the following is the best option for the database administrator to use?

- A. Word processor
- B. HTML editor
- C. UML tool
- D. Spreadsheet

Answer: C

Explanation:

The best option for the database administrator to use to update an organization's ERD is a UML tool. A UML tool is a software application that allows users to create, edit, and visualize diagrams using the Unified Modeling Language (UML). UML is a standard language for modeling software systems and their components, such as classes, objects, relationships, behaviors, etc. UML can also be used to create entity relationship diagrams (ERDs), which are graphical representations of the entities (tables), attributes (columns), and relationships (constraints) in a database. A UML tool can help the administrator to update an organization's ERD by providing features such as drag-and-drop, templates, symbols, validation, etc. The other options are either not suitable or not optimal for this task. For example, a word processor is a software application that allows users to create and edit text documents; a spreadsheet is a software application that allows users to organize and manipulate data in rows and columns; an HTML editor is a software application that allows users to create and edit web pages using HyperText Markup Language (HTML). Reference: CompTIA DataSys+ Course Outline, Domain 2.0 Database Deployment, Objective 2.2 Given a scenario, create database objects using scripting and programming languages.

NEW QUESTION # 125

A database administrator needs to ensure data that is being migrated from a company's system to a third-party vendor is secure. Which of the following is the best security measure for the administrator to implement?

- A. Server-side encryption
- B. GDPR compliance
- C. Data security audit
- D. Data loss prevention

Answer: A

Explanation:

Server-side encryption protects data during migration by encrypting it, ensuring confidentiality and security when transferring to a third-party vendor.
