NEW QUESTION # 134
A Zookeeper configuration has tickTime of 2000, initLimit of 20 and syncLimit of 5. What's the timeout value for followers to connect to Zookeeper?

- A. 10 sec
- B. 2000 ms
- C. 20 sec
- D. 40 sec

Answer: D

Explanation:
tick time is 2000 ms, and initLimit is the config taken into account when establishing a connection to Zookeeper, so the answer is 2000 * 20 = 40000 ms = 40s

NEW QUESTION # 135
An application is consuming messages from Kafka. You observe partitions being frequently reassigned to the consumer group from the application logs.
Which factors may be contributing to this? (Choose 2.)

NEW QUESTION # 136
You are composing a REST request to create a new connector in a running Connect cluster. You invoke POST /connectors with a configuration and receive a 409 (Conflict) response.
What are two reasons for this response? (Select two.)

- A. The Connect cluster is in process of rebalancing.
- B. The connector configuration was invalid, and the response body will expand on the configuration error.
- C. The connect cluster has reached capacity, and new connectors cannot be created without expandingthe cluster.
- D. The Connector already exists in the cluster.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:
A409 Conflictresponse in Kafka Connect REST API usually means:
* The connector name provided already exists (i.e., a connector with that name is already deployed).
* The Kafka Connect cluster is temporarily unavailable to accept new tasks due toa rebalance in progress.
From theConfluent Developer documentationand Kafka Connect REST API spec:
"409 - Conflict. The connector name is already in use or the worker group is in the process of rebalancing and cannot complete the request at this time." Option A is incorrect because invalid configurations return400 Bad Request, not 409.
Option B is invalid because Kafka Connect does not have a strict concept of "capacity" that prevents connector creation with a 409.
