dbt Labs dbt Analytics Engineering Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q215-Q220):

NEW QUESTION # 215

You've been tasked with improving the discoverability of dbt models within your project. Which of the following changes would be the MOST effective in achieving this goal?

- A. Using custom macros to dynamically generate model descriptions based on metadata.
- B. Writing longer, more verbose descriptions for each column in your models.
- C. Adding a tags list to all models, even if the tags are somewhat generic.
- D. Ensuring models have clear and concise descriptions that accurately reflect their purpose.

Answer: D

Explanation:

While the other options might have some value, clear and concise model descriptions provide the most immediate and direct way for users to understand the purpose and content of a model, aiding in discoverability within the dbt project's documentation.

NEW QUESTION # 216

You're tasked with creating a model for audit purposes. The data must be preserved exactly as it was at a specific point in time. Update frequency is low, and there's no need for additional transformations on the captured data. What materialization should you use?

- A. Incremental
- B. Table
- C. Snapshot
- D. View

Answer: C

Explanation:

Snapshots are designed for historical preservation. They capture the state of a source at a moment in time, providing a perfect audit trail.

NEW QUESTION # 217

(Multiple Select)

- A. A column is renamed
- B. A small percentage of records have null values introduced in a field.
- C. The column ordering within the table is changed.
- D. Additional records are appended with new data.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

Renaming or introducing nulls can directly break downstream SQL that references that column. B (adding data) is generally less disruptive. Column order (D) is usually irrelevant for analytics.

NEW QUESTION # 218

Performance Bottleneck

- A. Implement database-level indexes on columns involved in the joins, if appropriate.

- B. Run EXPLAIN or equivalent on the compiled query to pinpoint the most expensive operations.
- C. Introduce CTEs to pre-calculate aggregated data or common subexpressions, especially if reused repeatedly.
- D. Add -full-refresh to dbt run on the model to ensure downstream models don't cause errors.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

EXPLAIN diagnoses the query plan, while CTEs can restructure for optimization. Indexes are database-level changes. A full refresh is unnecessary and disregards incremental logic.

NEW QUESTION # 219

You're expanding your dbt deployment to support a new regional team based in a different geographic location from your main development team. They'll access the same production data in your centralized data warehouse. Which factors need careful consideration?

- A. Data residency regulations that might restrict the flow or storage of data between geographic regions.
- B. All of the above.
- C. Potential network latency affecting performance of dbt runs for the geographically separate team.
- D. Controlling dbt access based on team membership and geographic location to align with security policies.

Answer: B

Explanation:

A: Data regulations can heavily influence architecture and permissions. B: Network performance impacts user experience and execution times. C: Access control likely needs to consider region-specific restrictions.
