- F. Provide feedback.

Answer: A,C,F

NEW QUESTION # 54

Explain why a product vision might be important.
What are the characteristics of a well-defined product vision?
What is a characteristic of a poorly expressed product vision and explain why?

Answer:

Explanation:

Having a product vision is important because it provides a common understanding of the direction the organization wants to take the product. For example, it helps you develop a better product roadmap, it improves your decision-making throughout the development process, it helps you align teams and stakeholders, etc.

Two characteristics of a well express vision:

1. It is actionable and directive. It should be easy to make decisions based on the product vision.
2. It is clear and inspiring. It helps people involved in the product understand why they are building the product and the impact their work has on the product.

A characteristic of a poorly expressed product vision is one that isn't measurable. Because the visualization is lacking it leads to a product vision that doesn't feel real

For this answer, observe the focus is on product vision, which is not in the Scrum guide, however, it is a valid area for a product, and it is explained the importance of a product vision, and also provided a few examples for a well and poor characteristic.

NEW QUESTION # 55

What statements are true regarding the Definition of Done?
(choose the best three answers)

- A. It defines the details of each Scrum event.
- B. It creates a shared understanding of what finished work means.
- C. It helps the Scrum Team to forecast the amount of Product Backlog items planned for a Sprint.
- D. It is a checkoff list of things that must be done before a Sprint can be closed.

- E. It is used to increase transparency.

Answer: B,E

Explanation:

Scrum Guide

The Definition of Done is a formal description of the state of the Increment when it meets the quality measures required for the product.

The moment a Product Backlog item meets the Definition of Done, an Increment is born.

The Definition of Done creates transparency by providing everyone a shared understanding of what work was completed as part of the Increment. If a Product Backlog item does not meet the Definition of Done, it cannot be released or even presented at the Sprint Review. Instead, it returns to the Product Backlog for future consideration.

If the Definition of Done for an increment is part of the standards of the organization, all Scrum Teams must follow it as a minimum. If it is not an organizational standard, the Scrum Team must create a Definition of Done appropriate for the product.

The Developers are required to conform to the Definition of Done. If there are multiple Scrum Teams working together on a product, they must mutually define and comply with the same Definition of Done.

NEW QUESTION # 56

What are different techniques that can be used to form a product vision that will create a shared understanding of success?

Describe these practices and their purpose.

Answer:

Explanation:

A Business Model Canvas is a technique that helps to visualize business models. An organization's business model can be described with 9 basic building blocks.

Product Box is also an appropriate technique to create the vision, share it with the Scrum Team and stakeholders.

This technique involves a number of stakeholders from across the organization, including users.

- It helps prioritize functionalities and requirements, and reach a consensus on the most important benefits and features offered

- Because it is a customer-oriented technique, it gives the team the opportunity to learn what the users want from the product

For this answer, observe that techniques and examples that go beyond the Scrum guide is described in order to sustain the answer, in case you have experience with specific techniques, use them.
