NEW QUESTION # 158
In safe city video storage scenarios, if a customer needs to deploy 10,000 cameras, which of the following Huawei NAS products is recommended?

- A. OceanStor Pacific
- B. OceanStor hybrid flash storage NAS
- C. OceanStor Dorado NAS
- D. FusionCube

Answer: A

OceanStor Pacific is designed for large-scale, high-capacity storage scenarios, such as safe city video storage, where vast amounts of unstructured video data are generated. It provides high scalability, performance, and cost-effectiveness, making it suitable for deployments involving thousands of cameras.

NEW QUESTION # 159
In safe city video storage scenarios, if a customer needs to deploy 10,000 cameras, which of the following Huawei storage products is recommended?

- A. OceanStor Pacific
- B. OceanStor hybrid flash storage NAS
- C. OceanProtect
- D. OceanStor Dorado NAS

Answer: A

Explanation:
For "Safe City" projects involving massive video surveillance (such as 10,000+ camera streams), Huawei recommends the OceanStor Pacific series (distributed storage). Large-scale video surveillance generates immense volumes of unstructured data that must be written continuously and stored for long periods. A traditional centralized NAS or SAN often faces performance bottlenecks at the controller level when handling thousands of concurrent high-definition video streams.
OceanStor Pacific uses a scale-out architecture that allows performance and capacity to scale linearly. For 10,000 cameras, the system can aggregate the bandwidth of dozens or hundreds of nodes, providing the high throughput required for video ingestion and the massive capacity required for long-term retention. Additionally, OceanStor Pacific supports high-ratio Erasure Coding (EC), which provides better disk utilization (up to 91%) than traditional RAID, significantly reducing the Total Cost of Ownership (TCO) for petabyte-scale surveillance archives.
