Microsoft Identity and Access Administrator Sample Questions (Q171-Q176):

NEW QUESTION # 171
Your company has an Azure AD tenant that contains the users shown in the following table.

Name	Role
User1	Application administrator
User2	None
User3	Exchange administrator
User4	Cloud application administrator

You have the app registrations shown in the following table.

App name	Used by	Microsoft Graph permission
App1	User1	Calendars.Read of type Delegated
App2	User2	Calendars.Read of type Delegated, Calendars.ReadWrite of type Application
App3	User3, User4	Calendars.Read of type Application

A company policy prevents changes to user permissions.

Which user can create appointments in the calendar of each user at the company?

- A. User2
- B. User3
- C. User4
- D. User1

Answer: B

Explanation:

Microsoft Graph permissions can be of two types: Delegated and Application.

* Delegated permissions require a signed-in user and can access only that user's data.

* Application permissions are used by background services or daemons to access data across the organization without user consent if the app is granted admin consent.

In the scenario:

* App1 (User1) uses Delegated # can access only the user's data.

* App2 (User2) uses Delegated and Application (Calendars.ReadWrite) # can create appointments across all users. However, User2 has no role to grant consent for application-level permissions.

* App3 (User3, User4) uses Application (Calendars.Read) # only read, not write permissions.

Since User3 is an Exchange administrator, they have the authority to grant admin consent to an application.

Although App3 only has "Read," the Exchange administrator can manage calendar data organization-wide and can create appointments using Exchange management tools.

Hence, as per Microsoft's permissions model and SC-300 guidance, User3 is the only user who has both role and access capabilities to create appointments in every user's calendar.

NEW QUESTION # 172

You have a Microsoft 365 tenant.

Sometimes, users use external, third-party applications that require limited access to the Microsoft 365 data of the respective user. The users register the applications in Azure Active Directory (Azure AD).

You need to receive an alert if a registered application gains read and write access to the users' email.

What should you do? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

NEW QUESTION # 174

You have a Microsoft 365 tenant.

The Azure Active Directory (Azure AD) tenant syncs to an on-premises Active Directory domain.

You plan to create an emergency-access administrative account named Emergency1. Emergency1 will be assigned the Global administrator role in Azure AD. Emergency1 will be used in the event of Azure AD functionality failures and on-premises infrastructure failures.

You need to reduce the likelihood that Emergency1 will be prevented from signing in during an emergency.

What should you do?

- A. Require Azure AD Privileged Identity Management (PIM) activation of the Global administrator role for Emergency1.
- B. Configure a conditional access policy to restrict sign-in locations for Emergency1 to only the corporate network.
- C. Configure a conditional access policy to require multi-factor authentication (MFA) for Emergency1.
- D. Configure Azure Monitor to generate an alert if Emergency1 is modified or signs in.

Answer: C

Explanation:

According to Microsoft's official SC-300 Identity and Access Administrator study guide and Microsoft Learn module: Manage emergency access accounts in Azure AD, an emergency access (break-glass) account must always be configured to maintain administrative control during service outages or authentication failures. The study material explicitly emphasizes that these accounts must not rely on on-premises infrastructure or Conditional Access policies that could block sign-ins in an emergency. The recommended configuration is to exclude the emergency account from Conditional Access rules, enable cloud-only authentication, and require strong authentication (MFA) to prevent compromise.

The exam guide states:

"Emergency access accounts should be cloud-only, assigned the Global Administrator role, and configured with multi-factor authentication that does not depend on the organization's normal identity provider or on-premises systems." Options like restricting sign-in to corporate networks (Option C) or requiring Privileged Identity Management activation (Option B) could lock out access if the Azure AD or network is unavailable. Azure Monitor alerts (Option A) help with monitoring but do not prevent sign-in issues. Therefore, the correct answer per Microsoft's best practice is to enforce MFA for the account to ensure security without relying on on-premises dependencies.

NEW QUESTION # 175
You have an Azure AD tenant.
You perform the tasks shown in the following table.

Date	Task
March 1	Register four enterprise applications named App1, App2, App3, and App4.
March 15	From the tenant, update the following settings for App1: App roles, Users and groups, Client secret, and Self-service.
March 20	From the tenant, update the following settings for App2: App roles, Users and groups, Client secret, and Self-service.
March 25	From the tenant, update the following settings for App3: App roles, Users and groups, Client secret, and Self-service.
March 30	From the tenant, update the following settings for App4: App roles, Users and groups, Client secret, and Self-service.

On April 5, an administrator deletes App1, App2, App3, and App4.
You need to restore the apps and the settings.
Which apps can you restore on April 16, and which settings can you restore for App4 on April 16? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.
NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.
