NEW QUESTION # 47

Category Strategy Development is composed of 4 key stages. Which of the following is the correct order?

- A. Develop progress tracking plan, define resources needed, create strategic plan, roadshow
- B. Roadshow, create strategic plan, define resources needed, develop progress tracking plan
- C. Develop progress tracking plan, define resources needed, roadshow, create strategic plan
- D. Create strategic plan, develop progress tracking plan, define resources needed, roadshow

Answer: D

Explanation:

The correct sequence of Category Strategy Development is:

- * Create the strategic plan - outlining objectives, tactics, and desired outcomes.
- * Develop a progress tracking plan - defining performance measures and milestones.
- * Define resources needed - identifying staff, skills, and financial support required.
- * Conduct a roadshow - presenting the strategy to stakeholders and gaining buy-in.

This order ensures strategies are clearly defined before resources are committed and that tracking mechanisms are in place to measure success. The roadshow is critical to gain organisational support and alignment, ensuring all stakeholders understand the plan and contribute to its implementation. Mis-sequencing these steps can result in wasted resources, poor engagement, or ineffective execution. Category managers must follow this structured approach to maintain accountability, transparency, and long-term success in strategy implementation.

NEW QUESTION # 48

What form of procurement is Category Management?

- A. Planned
- B. Tactical
- C. Reactional
- D. Strategic

Answer: D

Explanation:

Category Management is a strategic approach to procurement. According to CIPS, it is defined as "a rigorous fact-based, end-to-end process for proactively collaborating with stakeholders to develop and implement sourcing strategies that deliver significant value from an organisation's external spend." Unlike tactical or reactive procurement, which focuses on immediate needs or firefighting, category management emphasises long-term planning, data analysis, supplier relationships, and alignment with business objectives. It goes beyond simply planning purchases in advance [which could apply to "planned procurement"] by integrating market intelligence, risk assessment, and value optimisation.

Being strategic means that category management seeks not only cost savings but also innovation, sustainability, and resilience. It requires cross-functional collaboration and the use of analytical tools like Kraljic matrices, total cost of ownership, and supplier segmentation.

Therefore, the most accurate categorisation is strategic procurement, not merely tactical or planned.

NEW QUESTION # 49

In mitigating risks within the supply chain, which two factors should be assessed when evaluating potential risks?

- A. Location
- B. Cost
- C. Likelihood
- D. People involved
- E. Severity

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

The two most important factors when assessing supply chain risks are Severity and Likelihood. These are typically measured on a scale [e.g., 1-5], with the product of the two giving a risk score.

* Severity measures the potential impact on the organisation if the risk materialises. For example, supplier insolvency may severely disrupt operations.

* Likelihood assesses the probability of the event occurring.

The combination of severity \times likelihood determines whether a risk is low, medium, or high, and informs mitigation strategies.

Other options are less central:

* Location may influence likelihood but is a sub-factor.

* People involved is not a formal assessment criterion.

* Cost can be a consequence but is part of severity, not a separate factor.

Using severity and likelihood ensures risks are prioritised based on both impact and probability, allowing category managers to allocate resources effectively.

NEW QUESTION # 50

Francis is a Category Manager within a large agricultural company which has over 10 categories. He believes that the Category with the largest spend (in £) is the most important category to the business. Is he correct?

- A. Yes - Categories with larger budgets buy more important items
- B. Yes - A larger spend signifies that the category is buying larger volumes of items than other categories
- C. No - All categories are equally as important to the business
- D. No - This fails to address the importance of the item to the organisation's service / product

Answer: D

Explanation:

Francis is not correct. Spend alone does not determine the importance of a category. For example, a high-spend category may include non-critical items, while a lower-spend category may include bottleneck or strategic items essential to operations. The importance of a category is determined by its impact on organisational goals and supply risk, not just spend.
