NEW QUESTION # 83

When a Document Template is created from an HR Case, the name of the person who created the document is added to the name of the attachment.

Why?

- A. It indicates who generated the document
- B. It indicates who the document is about
- C. It indicates who should sign the document
- D. It indicates the Opened for user

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

According to the ServiceNow Product Documentation on Document Templates¹, document templates are records that define the layout and content of a document that can be generated from a table record, such as an HR case¹. They can include information such as fields, variables, images, and signatures¹.

According to the ServiceNow Product Documentation on Generate Documents from Templates², when a document template is created from an HR case, the name of the person who created the document is added to the name of the attachment². For example, if John Smith created a document from the template Employee Termination Letter, the attachment name would be Employee Termination Letter - John Smith.docx².

The reason for this naming convention is to indicate who generated the document, which can be useful for auditing and tracking purposes². It can also help to avoid confusion or duplication if multiple documents are generated from the same template by different users².

The other options are not the correct explanation for why the name of the person who created the document is added to the name of the attachment. It does not indicate who should sign the document, as the signature can be added as a variable in the template¹. It does not indicate the Opened for user, as the document can be generated for any HR case, not necessarily the one that the user opened². It does not indicate who the document is about, as the document can contain information about multiple parties, such as the employee, the manager, and the HR representative².

NEW QUESTION # 84

Which features are part of the ServiceNow Mobile App? (Choose two.)

- A. Enables end users to log incidents for their assigned assets
- B. Provides end users visibility to their assigned hardware
- C. Provides users visibility to their disposed consumables
- D. Enables reclamation of mobile devices

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

Explanation

The ServiceNow Mobile App is a native app that enables users to access various ServiceNow features and functions from their mobile devices¹².

One of the features of the ServiceNow Mobile App is to provide end users visibility to their assigned hardware. This means that end users can view and report issues around their assets, such as laptops, tablets, or phones, from the app³⁴.

Another feature of the ServiceNow Mobile App is to enable end users to log incidents for their assigned assets. This means that end users can create and update incidents related to their assets, such as hardware failures, software errors, or network problems, from the app³⁴.

The other options are not features of the ServiceNow Mobile App. The app does not enable reclamation of mobile devices, which is a process of recovering and reusing devices that are no longer needed or used. The app also does not provide users visibility to their disposed consumables, which are items that are used up or depleted over time, such as toner cartridges, batteries, or paper.
