CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 1 Sample Questions (Q416-Q421):

NEW QUESTION # 416
A user would like a removable storage device that is secure. portable, and does not contain moving parts.
Which of the following devices would be the most suitable?

- A. HDD
- B. SSD
- C. SAN
- D. NAS

Answer: B

Explanation:
Explanation
An SSD (solid state drive) is a removable storage device that uses flash memory to store data. It is secure, portable, and does not contain moving parts, which makes it more reliable and durable than other types of storage devices. An HDD (hard disk drive) is not suitable, as it contains spinning platters and read/write heads that are prone to damage and data loss. A NAS (network attached storage) and a SAN (storage area network) are not removable devices, as they are connected to a network and provide shared storage for multiple users.

NEW QUESTION # 417
A technician needs to install a cost-effective storage device into a rackmount server that will be used as a VM host. This storage will be used for all VMs that run from the server. Which of the following should be used?

- A. eMMC storage device
- B. 15,000rpm drive
- C. Optical disk drive
- D. RAID 10 array

Answer: D

Explanation:
RAID 10 array is often used for server virtualization as it provides both redundancy and performance benefits. It uses a combination of mirroring and striping to provide both fault tolerance and improved I/O performance. An optical disk drive or eMMC storage device would not provide enough storage or performance for a VM host server, while a 15,000rpm drive may provide good performance but would not provide redundancy for fault tolerance. Therefore, a RAID 10 array is the best option for cost-effective storage that will be used for all VMs that run from the server.

NEW QUESTION # 418
A laptop PC user is reporting issues with the hard drive. A filesystem check shows that all files are accessible and the filesystem is clean. After the check, the PC still issues a hard drive error message. Which of the following is the MOST likely cause of the error?

- A. DIMM failure
- B. RAID failure
- C. S.M.A.R.T failure
- D. IOPS failure

Answer: C

Explanation:
If the filesystem check shows that all files are accessible and the filesystem is clean, but a hard drive error message persists, it's possible that the hard drive is experiencing S.M.A.R.T. (Self-Monitoring, Analysis, and Reporting Technology) failure. This is a warning system built into hard drives to alert users of potential issues before they become critical. Reference: CompTIA A+

NEW QUESTION # 419
A user reports that their desktop PC does not turn on. Which of the following components would most likely cause the issue?

- A. GPU
- B. CPU
- C. PSU
- D. RAM

Answer: C

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth Explanation:
If a desktop fails to power on entirely, the most probable cause is a faulty Power Supply Unit (PSU). If there are no lights, fans, or POST beeps, the PSU may have failed, cutting off all power to the motherboard and components.
* Option B (GPU): Could prevent video output, but the system would still power on and beep.
* Option C (RAM): Missing or faulty RAM would cause POST errors but not prevent startup entirely.
* Option D (CPU): A bad CPU may cause POST failure, but the system would usually at least power on.
CompTIA A+ Core 1 Exam Objective Reference:
* Objective 3.5: Given a scenario, troubleshoot problems related to motherboards, RAM, CPU, and power.

NEW QUESTION # 420
Which of the following solutions can help users who have the current Windows operating systems run legacy applications that are not supported under the latest applications?

- A. Application virtualization
- B. AppLocker
- C. Type 1 hypervisors
- D. Sandbox

Answer: A
