- A. Catalog

- C. Dictionary
- D. For-loop

A dictionary can be used to store alphanumeric data that can be fed into scripts or programs as input to penetration-testing tools. A dictionary is a collection of key-value pairs that can be accessed by using the keys.

NEW QUESTION # 343

A red team completed an engagement and provided the following example in the report to describe how the team gained access to a web server:
x' OR role LIKE '%admin%
Which of the following should be recommended to remediate this vulnerability?

- A. Parameterized queries
- B. Encrypted communications
- C. Multifactor authentication
- D. Secure software development life cycle

Answer: A

Explanation:
The best recommendation to remediate this vulnerability is to use parameterized queries in the web application. Parameterized queries are a way of preventing SQL injection attacks by separating the SQL statements from the user input. This way, the user input is treated as a literal value and not as part of the SQL statement. For example, instead of using x' OR role LIKE '%admin%, the user input would be passed as a parameter to a prepared statement that would check if it matches any value in the database.
