NEW QUESTION # 40

Why is the important to run the first minutes of the brain dump exercise in a silent mode? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. It ensures that all participants focus on the topic
- B. A challenge-related comment would influence the divergent perspectives
- C. It helps to stay away from the solution mode.
- D. It prevents discussion in order to lower political barriers

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

The brain dump exercise is a common technique in SAP Design Thinking workshops to capture initial thoughts and ideas quickly.

Running the first minutes in silence is intentional and serves specific purposes.

Here's why the correct answers are A and D:

* It prevents discussion in order to lower political barriers (A): Silence ensures that all participants contribute without being influenced by dominant voices or hierarchical dynamics. SAP emphasizes creating an inclusive environment where everyone feels comfortable sharing their ideas, regardless of their role or position.

* A challenge-related comment would influence the divergent perspectives (D): Early comments can unintentionally steer the group toward specific ideas or solutions, limiting creativity. SAP advocates for maintaining divergent thinking during the brain dump phase to encourage a wide range of perspectives and ideas.

Incorrect Options:

* B. It helps to stay away from the solution mode: While staying in exploration mode is important, the primary reason for silence is to prevent premature convergence and political barriers, not specifically to avoid solution mode.

* C. It ensures that all participants focus on the topic: While focus is important, silence is primarily used to reduce bias and hierarchy, not to enforce topic adherence.

NEW QUESTION # 41

What is the goal of the Concept Map technique? Note: There is 1 correct answer to this question.

- A. To understand direct and indirect interdependencies between people and concepts
- B. To understand overlapping areas between viability, feasibility and desirability
- C. To understand and capture the interconnection between different lines of business.
- D. To understand and illustrate daily activities in different departments

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Concept Map technique is a visual tool used to explore and illustrate relationships between different elements, such as people, ideas, or concepts. Here's why the correct answer is A:

* Why this is correct: The primary goal of a Concept Map is to visualize how various elements are interconnected. It helps participants identify both direct relationships (e.g., "Person A directly influences Concept B") and indirect relationships (e.g., "Concept C indirectly impacts Person D through Concept E"). This understanding is critical for uncovering hidden patterns and dependencies that may influence the problem space.
