93. Frage

When working with an individual who has both substance abuse issues and a mood disorder, the practitioner has determined that the individual is in the pre-contemplative stage of change in regard to his substance use.

The practitioner's interventions should focus on

- A. identifying triggers that lead to drinking.
- B. establishing a goal to decrease alcohol use.
- C. developing a trusting relationship.
- D. teaching the skill of saying no to alcohol.

Antwort: C

Begründung:

In the pre-contemplative stage of change, individuals are not yet considering changing their behavior (e.g., substance use) and may deny or minimize the problem. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain I: Interpersonal Competencies) emphasizes building trust and rapport with individuals in early stages of change to foster engagement and openness to future interventions (Task I.B.3: "Adapt communication strategies to build trust and engagement"). Option D (developing a trusting relationship) aligns with this, as establishing trust through empathetic, non-judgmental interactions is critical to help the individual feel safe and eventually consider change, particularly for someone with co-occurring substance abuse and mood disorders.

Option A (teaching the skill of saying no) is action-oriented and premature for pre-contemplation. Option B (identifying triggers) is relevant in later stages, like contemplation or preparation. Option C (establishing a goal to decrease use) assumes readiness not present in pre-contemplation. The PRA Study Guide, referencing the Stages of Change model, highlights trust-building as the primary focus for pre-contemplative individuals, supporting Option D.

94. Frage

A consumer-provider meets with a new referral and finds she knows the person from church. If she decides to provide services to this referral, this would be an example of a:

- A. Boundary issue.
- B. Dual relationship.
- C. Transference issue.
- D. Conflict of interest.

Antwort: B

Begründung:

This question pertains to Domain II: Professional Role Competencies, which focuses on maintaining professional ethics and boundaries, particularly in managing dual relationships. The CPRP Exam Blueprint and PRA Code of Ethics define a dual relationship as "a situation where a practitioner has a pre-existing personal or professional relationship with a client outside the therapeutic context, such as knowing them from a community setting like church." The scenario involves a consumer-provider (a peer provider) knowing a referral from church, creating a dual relationship if services are provided.

* Option D: Providing services to someone known from church constitutes a dual relationship, as the consumer-provider has both a professional (service provider) and personal (church acquaintance) relationship with the individual. This situation requires careful ethical management to avoid boundary violations, per PRA guidelines.

* Option A: Transference involves unconscious feelings projected onto the provider, not a pre-existing relationship, making it irrelevant here.

* Option B: A conflict of interest involves competing interests (e.g., financial gain), not a personal acquaintance from a community setting.

* Option C: A boundary issue may arise from a dual relationship but is a consequence, not the definition of the situation itself.

Extract from CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain II: Professional Role Competencies):

"Tasks include: 1. Identifying and managing dual relationships to maintain professional boundaries and ethical practice."

95. Frage

Identifying personal preferences and values is a part of assessing

- A. skill functioning.
- B. mental health status.
- C. resource needs.
- D. rehabilitation readiness.

Antwort: D

Begründung:

Assessing rehabilitation readiness involves understanding an individual's motivation, confidence, and personal drivers for pursuing recovery goals. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain IV: Assessment, Planning, and Outcomes) includes identifying personal preferences and values as part of readiness assessment to determine an individual's preparedness for goal-setting (Task IV.A.2: "Assess individual's stage of change and readiness for goal-setting"). Option C (rehabilitation readiness) aligns with this, as preferences and values (e.g., what matters most to the individual, such as family or independence) inform their willingness and motivation to engage in rehabilitation activities.

Option A (resource needs) focuses on external supports, not personal values. Option B (mental health status) pertains to clinical symptoms, not preferences or readiness. Option D (skill functioning) assesses abilities, not motivational factors like values. The PRA Study Guide emphasizes that understanding preferences and values is critical for assessing readiness, supporting Option C.

96. Frage

Community integration facilitates opportunities for activities that are

- A. self-directed.
- B. peer led.
- C. group directed.
- D. staff led.

Antwort: A

Begründung:

Community integration aims to empower individuals with psychiatric disabilities to participate fully in community life through activities that reflect their choices and autonomy. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration) emphasizes supporting self-directed activities that align with individual preferences (Task III.A.3: "Support individuals in pursuing self-directed community activities"). Option D (self-directed) aligns with this, as community integration facilitates opportunities for activities chosen by the individual—such as employment, volunteering, or hobbies—that promote independence and meaningful community roles.

Option A (peer led) is relevant for peer support but narrower, as not all community activities are peer-led.

Option B (staff led) contradicts the recovery-oriented focus on autonomy, as staff-led activities are more program-based. Option C (group directed) is less precise, as group activities may not always reflect individual choice. The PRA Study Guide highlights self-directed activities as the hallmark of community integration, supporting Option D.

97. Frage

An individual living in an agency-owned residence is not following the rules of the house. After multiple warnings, the individual continues to break the rules. He expresses dissatisfaction with the residence. The infractions are causing a safety risk for others in the home. The agency's BEST approach would be to

- A. refer him to a higher level of care.
- B. refer him to the local shelter.
- C. encourage him to change his behavior through a reward system.
- D. assist him in locating a living environment that will work with his behavior.

Antwort: D

Begründung:

When an individual in an agency-owned residence repeatedly breaks rules, causing safety risks, and expresses dissatisfaction, the agency must prioritize person-centered, recovery-oriented solutions that support community integration. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration) emphasizes assisting individuals in finding housing that aligns with their needs and preferences to promote stability and safety (Task III.A.1: "Support individuals in accessing and maintaining stable housing"). Option B (assist him in locating a living environment that will work with his behavior) aligns with this by addressing the individual's dissatisfaction and safety concerns through a collaborative process to find a more suitable living arrangement, such as independent housing or a setting with different rules or supports that better match his behavior and needs.

Option A (refer to a local shelter) is not recovery-oriented, as it risks homelessness and destabilization, contradicting community integration principles. Option C (refer to a higher level of care) assumes a clinical need without evidence and may not address the individual's dissatisfaction or housing mismatch. Option D (encourage behavior change through rewards) does not address the underlying issue of dissatisfaction or ensure safety for others, as the behavior persists despite warnings. The PRA Study Guide emphasizes person-centered housing solutions to resolve conflicts and promote stability, supporting Option B.
