ISACA Certified in Risk and Information Systems Control Sample Questions (Q1652-Q1657):

NEW QUESTION # 1652

Which of the following is the BEST evidence that risk management is driving business decisions in an organization?

- A. Residual risk is within risk tolerance.
- B. Compliance breaches are addressed in a timely manner.
- C. Risk treatment options receive adequate funding.
- D. Risk ownership is identified and assigned.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Risk treatment options are the actions or plans that are implemented to modify or reduce the risk exposure of the organization. Risk treatment options receive adequate funding when the organization allocates sufficient resources and budget to support the risk response actions, and to ensure that the risk controls are effective and efficient. This is the best evidence that risk management is driving business decisions in the organization, as it shows that the organization prioritizes and values the risk management process, and that it aligns its risk strategy and objectives with its business goals and value creation. NEW QUESTION # 1653

Which of the following is the MOST important element of a successful risk awareness training program?

- A. Providing incentives to participants
- B. Providing metrics for measurement
- C. Mapping to a recognized standard
- D. Customizing content for the audience

Answer: D

Explanation:

The most important element of a successful risk awareness training program is customizing content for the audience, because this ensures that the training is relevant, engaging, and effective for the learners.

Customizing content for the audience means tailoring the training materials and methods to suit the specific needs, preferences, and characteristics of the target group, such as their roles, responsibilities, knowledge, skills, attitudes, and learning styles. Customizing content for the audience can help to achieve the following benefits:

Increase the motivation and interest of the learners, as they can see the value and applicability of the training to their work and goals.

Enhance the comprehension and retention of the learners, as they can relate the training content to their prior knowledge and experience, and use examples and scenarios that are familiar and realistic to them.

Improve the transfer and application of the learners, as they can practice and apply the training content to their actual work situations and challenges, and receive feedback and support that are relevant and useful to them. NEW QUESTION # 1654

You are using Information system. You have chosen a poor password and also sometimes transmits data over unprotected communication lines. What is this poor quality of password and unsafe transmission refers to?

- A. Vulnerabilities
- B. Probabilities
- C. is incorrect. Threats are circumstances or events with the potential to cause harm to information resources. This scenario does not describe a threat.
- D. Impacts
- E. Explanation:

Vulnerabilities represent characteristics of information resources that may be exploited by a threat. The given scenario describes such a situation, hence it is a vulnerability.

- F. Threats
- G. is incorrect. Probabilities represent the likelihood of the occurrence of a threat, and this scenario does not describe a probability.

Answer: A

Explanation:

is incorrect. Impacts represent the outcome or result of a threat exploiting a vulnerability. The stem does not describe an impact.

NEW QUESTION # 1655

Which of the following is the BEST way to assess the effectiveness of an access management process?

- A. Reviewing access logs for user activity
- B. Reviewing for compliance with acceptable use policy
- C. Reconciling a list of accounts belonging to terminated employees
- D. Comparing the actual process with the documented process

Answer: C

Explanation:

The best way to assess the effectiveness of an access management process is to reconcile a list of accounts belonging to terminated employees. This will ensure that the access rights of the employees who have left the organization are revoked in a timely and accurate manner, and that there are no orphaned or unauthorized accounts that could pose a security risk. Comparing the actual process with the documented process, reviewing access logs for user activity, and reviewing for compliance with acceptable use policy are also useful methods, but they are not as direct and conclusive as reconciling a list of accounts belonging to terminated employees. NEW QUESTION # 1656

Who is the BEST person to an application system used to process employee personal data?

- A. Data privacy manager
- B. Compliance manager
- C. Human resources (HR) manager
- D. System administrator

Answer: A

Explanation:

The data privacy manager is the best person to an application system used to process employee personal data, because they are responsible for ensuring that the organization complies with the applicable data protection laws and regulations, and that the personal data of employees are collected, stored, processed, and disposed of in a secure and ethical manner. The data privacy manager is also responsible for establishing and maintaining the data privacy policies, procedures, and controls, and for conducting data privacy impact assessments and audits. The compliance manager, the system administrator, and the human resources (HR) manager are all involved in the of the application system, but they are not the best person to it, as they do not have the primary accountability and expertise for data privacy.
