Salesforce Certified CRM Analytics and Einstein Discovery Consultant Sample Questions (Q41-Q46):

NEW QUESTION # 41

A customer has a dataset consisting of over 300 unique product names. They request a prediction model with the product names included.

Which action should the Einstein Consultant take?

- A. Use SKU numbers rather than product names to increase clarity.
- B. Split the analysis into multiple models will each having fewer products
- C. Run the model using the default variables in the Product object
- D. Adjust the model to eliminate extreme values in the outcome variable.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 42

An Einstein Analytics team reports that when they start their dataflow it runs successfully with no errors or warnings, but one of the fields does not return values when it is queried.

What can be the origin of this issue?

- A. The "Integration User Profile" does not have access to the field.
- B. The field does not contain any data in Salesforce.
- C. The "Security User Profile" does not have access to the field.
- D. The user who runs the dataflow does not have access to the field.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 43

A team of CRM Analytics developers has been working on an existing recipe to add new derived fields. The edited version has been failing ever since, and management is requesting that the dashboard show refreshed data while they work on the edits.

How can the developers add new fields while keeping the dataset refreshed?

- A. Refresh the dataset after working hours to avoid the edited version from failing.
- B. A recipe for the new fields and when that is successful, add it to the existing recipe as a join node.
- C. Clone the existing recipe to add fields and roll back the original recipe to the last working version.

Answer: C

Explanation:

When faced with the need to continue refreshing data while developing new features in a recipe, the best practice is:

Clone the Existing Recipe: By cloning the recipe, developers can experiment with adding new fields and transformations without affecting the production data flow. This allows for testing and development in a sandbox-like environment.

Roll Back to a Stable Version: Rolling back the original recipe to the last stable version ensures that the production dashboards continue to receive refreshed data, maintaining business operations without disruption.

This approach not only ensures data continuity but also provides a safe environment to address any issues that may arise from new developments.

NEW QUESTION # 44

A manager at Cloud Kicks asks for data in a dashboard to be refreshed after the sync of an external connection to Google BigQuery.

How should the consultant accomplish this?

- A. Create 3 Salesforce flow to trigger the recipe to run once the connection sync has finished running.
- B. Check the scheduled date/time of the sync and schedule the recipe to run 15 minutes after the start time of the sync.
- C. Schedule the recipe to run as event-based and check the Salesforce external connection syncs checkbox.

Answer: C

Explanation:

For Cloud Kicks' requirement to refresh dashboard data synchronously with the sync of an external connection to Google BigQuery, the most efficient method is:

Event-Based Triggers: Using CRM Analytics, you can set up recipes to run on an event-based trigger. This ensures that the recipe (which processes the data for the dashboard) only runs after the external data sync is completed.

Salesforce External Connection Syncs: By specifically targeting the synchronization event of the Salesforce external connection with Google BigQuery, the recipe ensures data consistency and timeliness without manual intervention.

Automation and Efficiency: This approach minimizes latency and maximizes data freshness, aligning data processing closely with data availability, thus enhancing dashboard accuracy.

NEW QUESTION # 45

The Universal Containers company thinks it knows everything about its business. However, Einstein Discovery surfaces an unexpected pattern that is concerning. They call in departmental experts and hold a meeting to discuss next steps with an Einstein Consultant.

What should the consultant advise as the next action?

- A. Filter out the data that causes the unexpected pattern and analyze the new results.
- B. Consult a Data Scientist for further analysis.
- C. Determine if the pattern is a data issue or a new insight.
- D. Accept the new pattern and have confidence that Einstein knows the business as accurately as the customer.

Answer: D
