Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Base unit of measure
- B. Industry sector
- C. Product type
- D. Selection screen for views

Answer: A,B

Explanation:
Creating a material master (referred to here as a "product master") in SAP S/4HANA Cloud Private Edition (transaction MM01) requires mandatory fields to establish the material's identity and usage:
* Base unit of measure(A): This field (Basic Data 1 view, field: Base Unit of Measure) is mandatory and defines the primary unit (e.g., "PC," "KG") for stockkeeping, procurement, and production. Without it, the system cannot process quantities, making it a required input during creation.
* Industry sector(B): Selected on the initial MM01 screen (field: Industry Sector), this determines the material's business context (e.g., "M" for Mechanical Engineering) and influences the available views and field layouts. It's mandatory to proceed with material creation.
Selection screen for views(C) is a step in MM01 where you choose views (e.g., MRP, Purchasing), but it's not "information" entered-it's a navigation choice.Product type(D) is likely a misnomer for "Material Type" (e. g., FERT, ROH), which is required on the initial screen, but the question's phrasing aligns with SAP's term "Material Type," not "Product Type." A and B are the clearest matches per SAP's material creation process.
