NEW QUESTION # 69

A customer has a physical Windows server running a Microsoft SQL database. Which component should be used to protect the whole server?

- A. Cache Repository
- B. WAN Acceleration
- C. Veeam Agent

- D. Veeam Backup Proxy

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 70

A customer has been using an NFS repository in a high-capacity NAS device but is concerned about performance and security and complains that full backups require too much capacity.

What should the system engineer recommend?

- A. Reduce the block size in the advanced job settings to improve data deduplication.
- B. Enable deduplication on the NAS side, keep the same backup configuration so full backups will be completely deduplicated and take negligible capacity.
- C. Deploy a hardened repository in a new server and use XFS with Fast Clone for synthetic full backups.
- D. Run the Security & Compliance Analyzer to get the best recommendation specific for the customer environment and use case.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Using a hardened repository with XFS and Fast Clone addresses both performance and security concerns while optimizing storage efficiency. Fast Clone enables synthetic full backups by reusing existing data blocks on the repository, which significantly reduces the space required for full backups. Deploying a hardened repository enhances security by making the backup storage immutable, protecting it from unauthorized modifications or ransomware attacks. This solution aligns with the customer's concerns and provides a robust, scalable option.
