Which additional UX elements should be reviewed to influence the brand experience?

- A. Visual Design, Harmony, and Responsiveness
- B. Visual, Content, and Interaction Design
- C. Shapes, Interaction Design, and Typography

Answer: B

Explanation:

The additional UX elements that should be reviewed to influence the brand experience are visual, content, and interaction design. These elements are essential for creating a consistent, engaging, and memorable user experience that reflects the company's brand identity and values<sup>12</sup>.

Visual design refers to the use of colors, shapes, typography, images, icons, and other graphical elements to create a visual hierarchy, contrast, balance, and harmony on the page<sup>13</sup>. Visual design affects the user's perception, emotion, and attention, and can communicate the brand's personality, tone, and message<sup>13</sup>. For example, Cloud Kicks can use their logo, color scheme, and font to create a recognizable and distinctive visual identity for their portal landing page<sup>4</sup>.

Content design refers to the creation, organization, and presentation of text, audio, video, and other media to convey the brand's value proposition, story, and information to the user<sup>15</sup>. Content design affects the user's understanding, interest, and trust, and can communicate the brand's purpose, benefits, and voice<sup>15</sup>. For example, Cloud Kicks can use clear, concise, and compelling headlines, subheadings, and body text to highlight their products, services, and customer testimonials on their portal landing page.

Interaction design refers to the design of the user interface elements, such as buttons, links, menus, forms, and sliders, that enable the user to interact with the page and perform tasks<sup>1</sup>. Interaction design affects the user's behavior, satisfaction, and feedback, and can communicate the brand's functionality, usability, and responsiveness<sup>1</sup>. For example, Cloud Kicks can use intuitive, consistent, and accessible navigation, search, and filtering options to help the user find what they are looking for on their portal landing page.

NEW QUESTION # 100

Cloud Kicks (CK) allows its partners to manage leads and opportunities. CK's relationship manager has requested that partners are able to quickly browse and see their opportunities segmented by key attributes:

If the opportunity is closing within 2 weeks
If it is valued at more than $100,000
Which approach should be used in Experience Builder to enable this?

- A. Configure a pre-filtered opportunity list view for each key attribute with the partner group.
- B. Create a custom Lightning Web Component using a data table for each key attribute.
- C. Allow each user to create a filter for each key attribute and link to the opportunities list view.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The best approach to enable partners to quickly browse and see their opportunities segmented by key attributes is to configure a pre-filtered opportunity list view for each key attribute with the partner group. This way, the partners can easily access the list views that show only the opportunities that match the criteria, such as closing within 2 weeks or valued at more than $100,000. Creating a custom Lightning Web Component using a data table for each key attribute (A) might be too complex and time-consuming, and it might not be compatible with the Experience Builder. Allowing each user to create a filter for each key attribute and link to the opportunities list view (B) might be too tedious and inconsistent, and it might not provide a quick and easy way to browse the opportunities. Configuring a pre-filtered opportunity list view for each key attribute with the partner group is a simple and effective solution that leverages the existing functionality of the Experience Builder and the list view component<sup>12</sup>. ### NEW QUESTION # 101

A UX Designer wants to use the Salesforce Lightning Design System (SLDS) to create consistent user interface across Cloud Kicks' various platforms.

On which three platforms could the designer use SLDS resources?

Choose 3 answers

- A. Android
- B. Heroku
- C. Azure
- D. Visualforce
- E. MuleSoft

Answer: B,C,D

Explanation:

The Salesforce Lightning Design System (SLDS) is a collection of design resources that help create consistent and beautiful user interfaces across various platforms. The SLDS includes base components, tokens, design patterns, icons, fonts, and more, that follow the design principles and best practices of Lightning Experience. The SLDS can be used on the following three platforms:
 Visualforce: Visualforce is a framework that allows developers to create custom user interfaces for web and mobile applications on the Salesforce platform. Visualforce pages can leverage the SLDS styles to match the look and feel of Lightning Experience, without writing any CSS code. By adding the attribute `lightningStylesheets="true"` to the `<apex:page>` tag, Visualforce pages can automatically transform the standard Visualforce components into their SLDS equivalents<sup>12</sup>.

Heroku: Heroku is a cloud platform that supports various languages and frameworks, such as Node.js, Java, or PHP. Heroku applications can leverage the SLDS resources, such as the base components, the tokens, and the design patterns, to create web applications that have a consistent Lightning Experience look and feel. Heroku applications can also use the Lightning Out feature to embed Lightning components into their pages, and use the Lightning Web Components framework to create reusable UI elements<sup>34</sup>.

Azure: Azure is a cloud platform that offers various services and tools for building, deploying, and managing applications. Azure applications can leverage the SLDS resources, such as the base components, the tokens, and the design patterns, to create web applications that have a consistent Lightning Experience look and feel. Azure applications can also use the Lightning Out feature to embed Lightning components into their pages, and use the Lightning Web Components framework to create reusable UI elements<sup>56</sup>.

NEW QUESTION # 102

Cloud Kicks wants its Salesforce app to represent company branding and comply with Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) 2.1.

What should they consider about themes and branding?

- A. The color palette is auto-generated based on the brand color to be WCAG compliant.
- B. Salesforce automatically updates the selected brand color to make it accessible; this should be overridden to select the colors manually.
- C. There is a default WCAG compliant Salesforce color theme; only brand color can be updated.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Themes and branding allow Salesforce app developers to customize the look and feel of their apps to match their company's branding and accessibility standards. One of the features of themes and branding is the ability to select a brand color, which is the primary color used for buttons, links, and highlights. Salesforce automatically generates a color palette based on the brand color, which includes accessible colors that meet the WCAG 2.1 contrast ratio guidelines. This ensures that the app is visually appealing and accessible to users with different color vision abilities. Developers can also customize other aspects of the theme, such as the logo, page background, and default font. [Themes and Branding Basics], [Accessibility in Salesforce]
