A driving relationship is _____.

- A. The link between a predecessor and the activity whose dates it controls.
- B. The link between two related activities.
- C. A critical relationship.
- D. A finish-to-start relationship.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A driving relationship is the dependency link where the predecessor activity directly governs the dates of the successor activity.

Option A confuses "driving" with critical path relationships.

Option B oversimplifies by focusing on one type of relationship.

Option C is vague and does not specify the control aspect.

The driving relationship determines schedule flow and is essential for maintaining logical dependencies in CPM scheduling.

- A. Yes, the duration is 48 days.
- B. No, the start-to-start and finish-to-finish relationships are backwards.
- C. No, the total float is not shown correctly.
- D. Yes, except the early finish date is not shown.

Answer: A

Explanation:

* Activity Details (7001 - "Permanent Roads"):

Duration: 48 days in the Normal schedule.

Precedence Diagram Information: The schedule correctly reflects the logic and relationships as FS (Finish-to-Start) with successors.

* Total Float and Dates Review:

No discrepancies are provided in the diagram.

Early Start (ES) and Early Finish (EF) align with the planned duration and dependencies.

* Validation:

Total float is not specified as incorrect.

Early Finish dates, while not explicitly displayed, do not contradict the sequence.

Start-to-Start and Finish-to-Finish relationships are correctly oriented.

* Conclusion:

The activity is correctly represented with a duration of 48 days.

NEW QUESTION # 146

In order for a claimant to be entitled to an extension of contract time for a delay event (and further to be considered compensable):

- A. The delay must affect the contractor's planned construction schedule.
- B. The delay must not cause monetary harm to the defendant.
- C. The delay must be concurrent with the delay attributable to both parties.
- D. The delay must affect the critical path.

Answer: D

Explanation:

* Critical Path and Delays:

A delay must impact the critical path to qualify for a time extension or compensable delay, as the critical path determines the project's overall completion time.

If the critical path is not affected, the delay is considered to have "float," which means it does not affect the project's completion date and, therefore, may not be compensable.

* PSP Study Guide Reference:

Delays impacting the critical path are emphasized in the PSP Study Guide under schedule analysis and delay management sections. The claimant must demonstrate that the delay impacts key project milestones and overall project completion.

* Analysis for Selection:

Option A: Correct. A delay that does not affect the critical path does not result in additional time or compensation.

Option B: Concurrent delays involve shared responsibility and may complicate claims for compensation but are not a strict requirement for delay consideration.

Option C: Monetary harm is not directly relevant to time extension entitlement.

Option D: While planned schedules are significant, the focus is on the project's critical path, not just the contractor's planned sequence.

* Conclusion: The correct answer is A because affecting the critical path is the key determinant for entitlement to a time extension or compensable delay.
