- A. It must solicit informed consent through a notice on its website
- B. It must prove that it uses sufficient security safeguards to protect customer data
- C. It must be able to demonstrate a prior business relationship with the customers

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 300

Which of the following does NOT have to be included in the records most processors must maintain in relation to their data processing activities?

- A. Details of any data protection impact assessment conducted in relation to any processing activities carried out by the processor on behalf of each controller for which the processor is acting.
- B. Name and contact details of each controller on behalf of which the processor is acting.
- C. Categories of processing carried out on behalf of each controller for which the processor is acting.
- D. Details of transfers of personal data to a third country carried out on behalf of each controller for which the processor is acting.

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the GDPR, processors must maintain records of all categories of processing activities carried out on behalf of each controller, containing the following information¹²:

the name and contact details of the processor or processors and of each controller on behalf of which the processor is acting, and, where applicable, of the controller's or the processor's representative, and the data protection officer; the categories of processing carried out on behalf of each controller; where applicable, transfers of personal data to a third country or an international organisation, including the identification of that third country or international organisation and, in the case of transfers referred to in the second subparagraph of Article 49(1), the documentation of suitable safeguards; where possible, a general description of the technical and organisational security measures referred to in Article 32(1).

The records must be in writing, including in electronic form, and must be made available to the supervisory authority on request. The obligation to maintain records does not apply to an enterprise or an organisation employing fewer than 250 persons unless the processing it carries out is likely to result in a risk to the rights and freedoms of data subjects, the processing is not occasional, or the processing includes special categories of data or personal data relating to criminal convictions and offences.

The GDPR does not require processors to include details of any data protection impact assessment (DPIA) conducted in relation to any processing activities carried out by the processor on behalf of each controller for which the processor is acting. A DPIA is a process to help identify and minimise the data protection risks of a project. It is the responsibility of the controller to carry out a DPIA where a type of processing is likely to result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of natural persons. The processor may assist the controller in carrying out the DPIA, but the processor does not have to document it in its records of processing activities.

Therefore, the correct answer is D. Reference:

Tanya is the Data Protection Officer for Curtains Inc., a GDPR data controller. She has recommended that the company encrypt all personal data at rest. Which GDPR principle is she following?

- A. Lawfulness, fairness and transparency
- B. Storage Limitation
- C. Accuracy
- D. Integrity and confidentiality

Answer: D

Explanation:

The GDPR requires that personal data is processed in a manner that ensures appropriate security of the personal data, including protection against unauthorised or unlawful processing and against accidental loss, destruction or damage, using appropriate technical or organisational measures¹. This principle is known as integrity and confidentiality, or sometimes as security². Encryption is one of the possible technical measures that can be used to protect personal data at rest, as it makes the data unintelligible to anyone who does not have the key to decrypt it³. By recommending that the company encrypts all personal data at rest, Tanya is following the principle of integrity and confidentiality, as she is ensuring that the personal data is secure and protected from unauthorised access or accidental damage.
