IBM watsonx Generative AI Engineer - Associate Sample Questions (Q231-Q236):

NEW QUESTION # 231
You are tasked with optimizing a generative AI model's usage in a chatbot that provides troubleshooting instructions for software issues. The current prompt template is:
"Please provide step-by-step troubleshooting instructions for the following issue: [Issue Description]. Be detailed, include specific commands or settings the user should check, and provide potential reasons for failure." To reduce the token count and ensure cost efficiency, which of the following prompt template modifications would best manage token usage while preserving essential information?

- A. "Give troubleshooting instructions for [Issue Description], including steps, commands, and reasons for failure."
- B. "Provide detailed troubleshooting instructions for the issue: [Issue Description], with steps, commands, and potential reasons for failure."
- C. "Troubleshoot the following issue: [Issue Description]. Offer step-by-step commands and reasons for failure."
- D. "Provide step-by-step instructions for troubleshooting the issue: [Issue Description]. Include commands and reasons for failure."

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 232
During the fine-tuning of a large language model (LLM) with InstructLab for a legal document classification task, you notice that the model performs exceptionally well on the training set but poorly on the validation set.
What could be done to address the overfitting issue and improve the model's generalization? (Select two)

- A. Remove all regularization and fine-tune the model on the training set until convergence.
- B. Fine-tune the model for more epochs to ensure the model has fully learned from the training data.
- C. Increase the size of the model to better capture complex patterns in the training data.
- D. Introduce dropout regularization during fine-tuning to prevent overfitting.
- E. Use early stopping based on the validation set performance.

Answer: D,E

NEW QUESTION # 233
You are working on a project that involves deploying a series of prompt templates for a large language model on the IBM Watsonx platform. The team has requested a system that supports prompt versioning so that updates to the prompts can be tracked and tested over time.
Which of the following is the most important consideration when planning prompt versioning for deployment?

- A. Version control should focus exclusively on the syntactical structure of the prompts, as changes to prompt content rarely impact the model's performance.
- B. The versioning system should automatically downgrade to the previous prompt version if the model returns a confidence score below a certain threshold during inference.
- C. Each version of the prompt must have a unique identifier that can be referenced during model inference, to avoid conflicting results from different prompt versions.
- D. Prompts should be stored in a proprietary IBM format, as other formats are not compatible with the Watsonx platform when using versioning.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 234
You are tasked with designing a prompt to fine-tune an IBM Watsonx model to summarize legal documents. The summaries must include only factual information, highlight key legal terms, and exclude any personal interpretations or subjective analysis.
Which of the following is the best prompt to achieve this goal?

- A. "Create a brief summary of this legal document, ensuring to exclude any legal jargon and simplifying the content for a layperson audience."
- B. "Summarize this legal document, focusing on key arguments and providing an analysis of the potential outcomes of the case."
- C. "Provide a summary of this legal document, focusing on factual information, including key legal terms and avoiding personal interpretation or subjective analysis."
- D. "Generate a detailed and engaging summary of this legal document, adding your insights to clarify complex legal points for the reader."

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 235

You are building a chatbot using a generative AI model for a medical advice platform. During testing, you notice that the model occasionally generates medical information that contradicts established guidelines. This is an example of a model hallucination. Which prompt engineering technique would best mitigate the risk of hallucination in this scenario?

- A. Providing a list of credible sources in the prompt
- B. Increasing the model's temperature parameter
- C. Using more open-ended prompts
- D. Implementing zero-shot learning techniques

Answer: A
