Lpi LPIC-1 Exam 101, Part 1 of 2, version 5.0 Sample Questions (Q230-Q235):

NEW QUESTION # 230

Which grep command will print only the lines that do not end with a / in the file foo?

- A. `grep -v '/' foo`
- B. `grep '/' foo`
- C. `grep -v '/' foo`
- D. `grep '/' foo`

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation:

The grep command that will print only the lines that do not end with a / in the file foo is `grep -v '/' foo`. This command uses the following options and pattern:

`-v`: Inverts the matching, meaning that it only outputs the lines that do not match the pattern.

`/`: Matches a character at the end of a line. The symbol represents the end of a line in regular expressions. `foo`: The name of the file to search.

The output of this command will show all the lines in the file foo that do not have a / as the last character. For example, if the file foo contains the following lines:

```
/home/user/ /var/log/messages /etc/passwd /usr/bin/
```

The output of the command will be:

```
/var/log/messages /etc/passwd
```

The other commands are incorrect for the following reasons:

* `grep '/' foo`: This command will print only the lines that do end with a / in the file foo, which is the opposite of what is required.

* `grep '/' foo`: This command will print only the lines that contain the string / in the file foo, which is not related to the question.

* `grep -v '/' foo`: This command will print only the lines that do not contain the string / in the file foo, which is also not related to the question.
