Lpi LPIC-1 Exam 101, Part 1 of 2, version 5.0 Sample Questions (Q142-Q147):

NEW QUESTION # 142

Which of the following tools can show the complete path of an executable file that the current shell would execute when starting a command without specifying its complete path? (Choose two.) find

- A. type
- B.
- C. which
- D. pwd
- E. locate

Answer: B,E

NEW QUESTION # 143

Which grep command will print only the lines that do not end with a / in the file foo?

- A. `grep '/'$' foo`
- B. `grep '/#' foo`
- C. `grep -v '/#' foo`
- D. `grep -v '/'$' foo`

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

The `grep` command that will print only the lines that do not end with a `/` in the file `foo` is `grep -v '/'$' foo`. This command uses the following options and pattern:

`-v`: Inverts the matching, meaning that it only outputs the lines that do not match the pattern.

`/`: Matches a character at the end of a line. The symbol represents the end of a line in regular expressions. `foo`: The name of the file to search.

The output of this command will show all the lines in the file `foo` that do not have a `/` as the last character. For example, if the file `foo` contains the following lines:

```
/home/user/ /var/log/messages /etc/passwd /usr/bin/
```

The output of the command will be:

```
/var/log/messages /etc/passwd
```

The other commands are incorrect for the following reasons:

* `grep '/'$' foo`: This command will print only the lines that do end with a `/` in the file `foo`, which is the opposite of what is required.

* `grep '/#' foo`: This command will print only the lines that contain the string `/` in the file `foo`, which is not related to the question.

* `grep -v '/#' foo`: This command will print only the lines that do not contain the string `/` in the file `foo`, which is also not related to the question.

NEW QUESTION # 144

Which command is used to query information about the available packages on a Debian system?

- A. `dpkg-search`
- B. `dpkg`
- C. `apt-search`
- D. `apt-cache`
- E. `apt-get`

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 145

Which file in the `/proc` filesystem lists parameters passed from the bootloader to the kernel? (Specify the file name only without any path.)

Answer:

Explanation:

`cmdline`

Explanation:

The file in the `/proc` filesystem that lists the parameters passed from the bootloader to the kernel is `/proc`

`/cmdline`. This file contains a single line of text that shows the command line arguments that were used to boot the kernel. These arguments can include various options, such as the root device, the init process, the console device, and more. The `/proc/cmdline` file is read-only and cannot be modified at runtime. The parameters in this file are determined by the bootloader configuration, such as GRUB or LILO, and can be changed by editing the corresponding files.

NEW QUESTION # 146

What is the purpose of the xargs command?

- A. It reads standard input and builds up commands to execute.
- B. It repeats the execution of a command using different parameters for each invocation.
- C. It asks a question, graphically, and returns the answer to the shell.
- D. It allows specifying long options (like --help) for commands that normally only accept short options (like -h)
- E. It passes arguments to an X server.

Answer: A
