問題 #60

Creating value responsibly for shareholders would sit under which aspect of the sustainability triple bottom line?

- A. Social
- B. Environmental
- C. Legal
- D. Economic

答案： D

解題說明：

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract of Documents:

The economic pillar of the Triple Bottom Line refers to the creation of financial value while maintaining responsibility toward stakeholders. The L5M5 study guide (p.179) explains that sustainability in procurement is not only about compliance with social and environmental standards but also about ensuring financial viability. Activities such as delivering shareholder returns, managing costs, and achieving long-term profitability fall under the economic dimension. "Legal" is not one of the TBL pillars, and while law supports governance, it is not itself a sustainability principle. Therefore, creating value for shareholders through responsible economic performance is clearly categorised under the economic aspect of TBL.

問題 #61

Labour standards facilitate international trade and there are international regulations to secure this. Is this statement TRUE?

- A. No - labour standards vary from country to country
- B. Yes - there is a minimum labour standard governing pay and conditions
- C. No - no countries have established labour standards
- D. Yes - labour standards are regulated by the UN and other multi-national bodies

答案： A

解題說明：

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract of Documents:

The correct answer is that labour standards vary from country to country. According to the L5M5 study guide (p.85), while international conventions exist (e.g., ILO conventions), there is no single binding international law regulating labour standards across all nations. Instead, each country enforces its own rules regarding wages, hours, and working conditions. Some countries have strict protections, while others may have weak or poorly enforced standards. Therefore, procurement professionals must apply due diligence and supplier audits when sourcing internationally, as ethical risks arise in jurisdictions with lower labour protections.

問題 #62

Banks, investors, and consumers form which type of stakeholder?

- A. External stakeholder
- B. Connected internal stakeholder
- C. Internal stakeholder
- D. Connected external stakeholder

答案: D

解題說明:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract of Documents:

Stakeholders are categorised based on their relationship to the organisation. The L5M5 study guide (p.105) explains that connected external stakeholders are outside the organisation but directly linked through financial or contractual relationships. Banks (financiers), investors (shareholders), and consumers (customers) fall into this category. Internal stakeholders (A) include employees and management, while external stakeholders (B) are broader groups such as regulators and communities without direct contracts. "Connected internal stakeholders" (C) is not a valid classification. Procurement professionals must identify and manage stakeholder expectations to maintain ethical, transparent supply chains.

問題 #63

Berty Boo Ltd conducts an audit checking compliance with regulations, policies, and risk procedures. What type of audit is this?

- A. Compliance audit
- B. Third-party audit
- C. Benchmarking audit
- D. External audit

答案: A

解題說明:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract of Documents:

A compliance audit evaluates whether an organisation adheres to regulatory requirements, security policies, and internal risk management procedures. The L5M5 study guide (p.207) highlights that this is distinct from external audits (conducted by outsiders), third-party audits (commissioned independently), and benchmarking audits (comparing against industry peers). Procurement professionals must use compliance audits to ensure suppliers meet legislative and regulatory standards, reducing risks of non-compliance, fines, and reputational damage.

問題 #64

How can integrating social considerations into sustainable procurement and supply create opportunities for accessing new markets?
Select any TWO.

- A. By partnering with local suppliers and underrepresented communities, thereby opening up regional markets
- B. By solely prioritizing the fastest delivery times, regardless of sourcing practices
- C. By focusing exclusively on reducing costs, which attracts price-sensitive customers
- D. By ignoring cultural differences and standardizing products for all markets
- E. By ensuring compliance with international labor standards, making products more appealing to ethical consumers

答案: A,E

解題說明:

Choice A- This option is correct. Compliance with international labor standards signals a commitment to ethical practices, which can attract consumers who prioritize sustainability and social responsibility. This appeal can open new markets, particularly among consumers who are willing to pay a premium for ethically sourced products.

Choice B- This option is incorrect. While reducing costs can attract some customers, it often overlooks social considerations and may lead to unethical sourcing practices. Focusing solely on cost does not contribute to sustainable procurement and can limit access to markets that value ethical practices.

Choice C- This option is correct. Partnering with local suppliers and underrepresented groups fosters community engagement and strengthens local economies. Moreover catering for new range of customers who may not have been previously catered for. This approach can help organizations tap into regional markets, build trust with local consumers, and enhance brand loyalty through a commitment to social responsibility.

Incorrect answer:

Choice D- This option is incorrect. Ignoring cultural differences can alienate potential customers and limit market access. Sustainable procurement should consider local customs and preferences to effectively cater to diverse markets. Adapting products to fit local contexts can enhance acceptance and success in new markets.

Choice E- This option is incorrect because prioritizing only speed in delivery can compromise ethical sourcing and sustainability practices. While timely delivery is important for customer satisfaction, focusing exclusively on it can lead to neglecting social and environmental responsibilities. Fast delivery may involve sourcing from suppliers that cut corners on labor standards or environmental protections, ultimately undermining the principles of sustainable procurement. To effectively access new markets, organizations must balance delivery efficiency with ethical sourcing practices, ensuring that both speed and sustainability are prioritized.
