APICS Certified in Planning and Inventory Management (CPIM 8.0) Sample Questions (Q552-Q557):

NEW QUESTION # 552

Based on the above table, calculate the mean absolute deviation (MAD).

Month	Actual	Forecast	Variation
1	80	50	-30
2	50	40	-10
3	50	75	25
4	75	65	-10
Total	255	230	-25

- A. 0
- B. 18.75
- C. 6.25
- D. 1

Answer: C

Explanation:

The mean absolute deviation (MAD) is a measure of variability that indicates the average distance between observations and their mean. MAD uses the original units of the data, which simplifies interpretation. Larger values signify that the data points spread out further from the average. Conversely, lower values correspond to data points bunching closer to it. The mean absolute deviation is also known as the mean deviation and average absolute deviation¹.

The formula for the mean absolute deviation is the following:

$$MAD = (\sum |X - X\#|) / N$$

Where:

- *X = the value of a data point
- *X# = the mean of the data points
- *|X - X#| = the absolute deviation of a data point from the mean
- *N = the number of data points
- *# = the summation symbol

Based on the table, we can calculate the MAD as follows:

$$*X# = (80 + 50 + 50 + 75) / 4 = 63.75$$

$$*|X - X#| = |80 - 63.75|, |50 - 63.75|, |50 - 63.75|, |75 - 63.75| = 16.25, 13.75, 13.75, 11.25$$

$$*MAD = (16.25 + 13.75 + 13.75 + 11.25) / 4 = 6.25$$

Therefore, the correct answer is B.

NEW QUESTION # 553

When implementing solutions for information security continuous monitoring, which method provides the MOST interoperability between security tools?

- A. Security Content Automation Protocol (SCAP)
- B. Common Vulnerability Scoring System (CVSS)
- C. Continuous Integration and Continuous Delivery (CI/CD)
- D. Common Vulnerabilities and Exposures (CVE)

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 554

Access Control Lists (ACL), protection bits, and file passwords are typical examples of which of the following access control methods?

- A. Role-based.
- B. Mandatory.
- C. Discretionary.
- D. Attribute-based.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 555

What resources does a respondent have when contesting disciplinary action taken by the ISC2 Board of Directors?

- A. The respondent may file an appeal with the Ethics Committee
- B. The respondent may file an appeal with the Board of Director
- C. None; the decision made by the Board of Directors are final
- D. The respondent has 30 days to provide additional evidence for consideration

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 556

If all other factors remain the same, when finished goods inventory investment is increased, service levels typically will:

- A. increase at an increasing rate.
- B. increase at a decreasing rate.
- C. increase in direct (linear) proportion.
- D. remain the same.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Increasing finished goods inventory investment will improve service levels by reducing the probability of stockouts. However, the relationship between inventory and service level is not linear, but rather asymptotic. This means that as inventory increases, service level increases at a decreasing rate, approaching a maximum value. Therefore, option C is correct. Option A is incorrect because service level will not remain the same when inventory changes. Option B is incorrect because service level will not increase in direct proportion to inventory. Option D is incorrect because service level will not increase at an increasing rate as inventory increases.
