Scrum SSM (6.0) - SAFe® Scrum Master Sample Questions (Q13-Q18):

NEW QUESTION # 13

According to SAFe, what is one approach to retrospectives?

- A. Ensure the event ends with essential working agreements in place for the team
- B. Ensure the event ends with relevant goals for how the team will handle dependencies
- C. Ensure the event ends with actionable improvement items for the backlog
- D. Ensure the event ends with sustainable ideas for the next Iteration

Answer: C

Explanation:

According to SAFe, the Iteration Retrospective is a key event that enables relentless improvement, one of the pillars of the SAFe House of Lean. The purpose is to reflect on the previous iteration and identify what went well, what didn't, and what can be improved.

An essential outcome of this meeting is a set of actionable improvement items that can be added to the team backlog. These items are often captured as improvement Stories, ensuring that process enhancements are visible, prioritized, and implemented in the next iteration.

From SAFe guidance:

"The retrospective concludes with actionable improvement items added to the backlog. These items should be implemented in subsequent iterations to improve performance." Therefore, the correct answer is D. Ensure the event ends with actionable improvement items for the backlog, as it ensures continuous learning and measurable improvement.

NEW QUESTION # 15

- A. The team backlog is where Stories are accepted
- B. The team backlog is where the team finalizes work
- C. The team backlog is where the team commits to work
- D. The team backlog is where the team refines possible Stories

Answer: D

Explanation:

In SAFe, the team backlog is the source of work for the Agile Team and includes all the user stories, enablers, and defects that represent potential upcoming work. It is owned and managed by the team, often guided by the Product Owner, who ensures the backlog remains prioritized and ready for iteration planning.

A crucial ongoing activity related to the backlog is refinement (or backlog refinement)-the process of reviewing, clarifying, and breaking down backlog items into smaller, well-understood Stories that are ready for implementation. During this activity, the team collaborates to ensure backlog items have sufficient detail, appropriate acceptance criteria, and relative sizing estimates.

From SAFe guidance:

"The team backlog is the source for stories, enablers, and defects planned in iterations. Teams continuously refine the backlog to ensure upcoming work is well understood and ready for planning." Therefore, the correct answer is C. The team backlog is where the team refines possible Stories.
