Microsoft GitHub Advanced Security Sample Questions (Q55-Q60):

NEW QUESTION # 55
Which of the following steps should you follow to integrate CodeQL into a third-party continuous integration system? (Each answer presents part of the solution. Choose three.)

- A. Process alerts
- B. Install the CLI
- C. Upload scan results
- D. Write queries
- E. Analyze code

Answer: B,C,E

Explanation:
When integrating CodeQL outside of GitHub Actions (e.g., in Jenkins, CircleCI):
Install the CLI: Needed to run CodeQL commands.
Analyze code: Perform the CodeQL analysis on your project with the CLI.
Upload scan results: Export the results in SARIF format and use GitHub's API to upload them to your repo's security tab.
You don't need to write custom queries unless extending functionality. "Processing alerts" happens after GitHub receives the results.

NEW QUESTION # 56
Which patterns are secret scanning validity checks available to?

- A. Custom patterns
- B. High entropy strings
- C. Push protection patterns
- D. Partner patterns

Answer: D

Explanation:
Validity checks - where GitHub verifies if a secret is still active - are available for partner patterns only. These are secrets issued by GitHub's trusted partners (like AWS, Slack, etc.) and have APIs for GitHub to validate token activity status.
Custom patterns and high entropy patterns do not support automated validity checks.

NEW QUESTION # 57
As a developer with write access, you navigate to a code scanning alert in your repository. When will GitHub close this alert?

- A. After you triage the pull request containing the alert
- B. When you use data-flow analysis to find potential security issues in code
- C. After you fix the code by committing within the pull request
- D. After you find the code and click the alert within the pull request

Answer: C

Explanation:
GitHub automatically closes a code scanning alert when the vulnerable code is fixed in the same branch where the alert was generated, usually via a commit inside a pull request. Simply clicking or triaging an alert does not resolve it. The alert is re-evaluated after each push to the branch, and if the issue no longer exists, it is marked as resolved.

NEW QUESTION # 58
Which CodeQL query suite provides queries of lower severity than the default query suite?

- A. security-extended
- B. github/codeql-go/ql/src@main

- C. github/codeql/cpp/ql/src@main

Answer: A

Explanation:
The security-extended query suite includes additional CodeQL queries that detect lower severity issues than those in the default security-and-quality suite.
It's often used when projects want broader visibility into code hygiene and potential weak spots beyond critical vulnerabilities.
The other options listed are paths to language packs, not query suites themselves.

NEW QUESTION # 59
A secret scanning alert should be closed as "used in tests" when a secret is:

- A. Not a secret in the production environment.
- B. In a test file.
- C. In the readme.md file.
- D. Solely used for tests.

Answer: D

Explanation:
If a secret is intentionally used in a test environment and poses no real-world security risk, you may close the alert with the reason "used in tests". This helps reduce noise and clarify that the alert was reviewed and accepted as non-critical.
Just being in a test file isn't enough unless its purpose is purely for testing.
