IFSE Institute Life License Qualification Program (LLQP) Sample Questions (Q96-Q101):

NEW QUESTION # 96

Molly took out a disability insurance policy. A few years after the purchase, she severely injured her back and was unable to work. She immediately filed a claim with her insurer to start receiving benefits. The insurer asked for an attending physician's statement

(APS) describing her condition and stating when that condition started. Why is it important for the insurer to know on what date Molly became disabled?

- A. To determine when the incontestability period began.
- B. To determine when the 30-day grace period began.
- C. To determine when the waiting period began.
- D. To determine when the 30-day survival period began.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed in Depth Explanation with Exact Extract from Documents and Guides:

Disability insurance policies typically include a waiting period (also called an elimination period), which is the time between the onset of disability and when benefits begin. The IFSE Ethics and Professional Practice Course (Common Law) notes that insurers require the date of disability onset-via an APS-to calculate this period (e.g., 30, 60, or 90 days). This ensures benefits are paid only after the waiting period elapses. A survival period (A) applies to life insurance, not disability. The incontestability period (B) relates to policy validity, not claim timing. The grace period (C) pertains to premium payments. Knowing when Molly became disabled is critical for the waiting period, making D correct.

NEW QUESTION # 97

Sasha is an employee at PranaTech. The company offers all employees a pension plan. PranaTech must contribute into the plan, but employee contributions are not mandatory. Sasha chooses where his funds will be invested.

- A. Defined contribution pension plan.
- B. Group registered retirement savings plan.
- C. Deferred profit sharing plan.
- D. Defined benefit pension plan.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 98

Angela works in a biomedical research lab where she has been assigned to discover possible antidotes to the anthrax virus. While the discovery process of testing possible antidotes would expose her to the deadly virus, she is excited about the assignment. Knowing that anthrax can be contracted through infected food, air or contact with skin, what risk management strategy would Angela employ by wearing protective gear over her mouth and skin?

- A. Risk reduction.
- B. Risk avoidance.
- C. Risk retention.
- D. Risk transfer.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

Angela is using protective gear to minimize exposure to a known hazard. This is a textbook example of risk reduction, which involves implementing safety measures to lower the probability or impact of a loss. LLQP classifies risk strategies into avoidance, retention, transfer, and reduction-each with distinct characteristics.

Wearing gear does not eliminate the risk but reduces it significantly.

NEW QUESTION # 99

(Julia deposited capital into an annuity contract that will start payments in three years and continue for 10 years. She is the annuitant; her son Ethan is the beneficiary. What type of annuity has Julia purchased?)

- A. An immediate payout term annuity with no guarantee.
- B. An immediate accumulation term annuity with a 10-year guarantee.
- C. A deferred payout 10-year term annuity.
- D. An accumulation 10-year term annuity.

Answer: C

Explanation:

A deferred payout term annuity involves depositing funds now with payments starting after a deferment period (in Julia's case, 3 years) and continuing for a set term (10 years).

Exact Extract:

"A deferred payout annuity begins income payments after a specified deferment period. If a fixed period is selected, it is known as a term annuity." (Reference: Segfunds-E313-2020-12-7ED, Chapter 3.2.1.1 Payout Annuity)

NEW QUESTION # 100

Nine months ago, Osvaldo was instructed by his insurance agent, Jane, to write a cheque to renew his life insurance. Jane put the cheque in her wallet. She lost her wallet the very same day and completely forgot about Osvaldo's payment. Some time later, Osvaldo died in a tragic car accident. His family made a claim for the death benefit, but was denied because the policy had lapsed. Who will have to compensate Osvaldo's family for the loss of death benefit?

- A. OmbudService for Life & Health Insurance.
- B. Jane, using personal assets.
- C. Jane's errors and omissions coverage.
- D. The Canadian Council of Insurance Regulators.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed in Depth Explanation with Exact Extract from Documents and Guides:

The IFSE Ethics and Professional Practice Course (Common Law) explains that agents must carry Errors and Omissions (E&O) insurance to cover financial losses due to negligence or mistakes. Jane's failure to process Osvaldo's payment, leading to a lapsed policy, is negligence. E&O coverage compensates the family for the lost benefit, not Jane's personal assets (A), as it's designed for such errors. The OmbudService (C) mediates disputes but doesn't pay claims, and the Canadian Council of Insurance Regulators (D) coordinates policy, not compensation. Thus, B is correct.
