The business backlog is a list of requirements or user stories that describe the features or functionality that the business needs or wants from a project or enhancement. The business backlog should be prioritized by the business teams affected because they are the ones who have the most knowledge and interest in the business value and impact of each requirement or user story. The business backlog should also be supported by the internal technology teams who understand ways to maximize Salesforce's declarative features because they are the ones who have the most knowledge and expertise in the technical feasibility and complexity of each requirement or user story. - * Custom tabs
- * Visualforce pages

A Which path should the BA take to find this information?

- A. Review configuration settings.
- B. Conduct stakeholder interviews.
- C. Read business process documentation

Answer: A

The path that the business analyst should take to find information about custom apps, active Salesforce Sites, active flows, custom tabs, and Visualforce pages is to review configuration settings. Configuration settings are options or preferences that can be customized or modified in Setup. They can help the business analyst understand how Salesforce was implemented and what features or components were enabled or disabled.

Custom apps, active Salesforce Sites, active flows, custom tabs, and Visualforce pages are examples of configuration settings that can be accessed or changed in Setup. Conducting stakeholder interviews may be a useful way to gather information about business needs, expectations, or feedback, but not about technical details or configuration settings. Reading business process documentation may be a useful way to understand how a business process works or flows, but not about technical details or configuration settings.
